

HE WILL BE THERE.

THE CAMPAIGN IN HOUSTON WARMING UP.

Hardeman and His Friends at Work, Which Calls Out the Activity of Those of Northern, Who Say He Will Be There.

PORT VALLEY, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Houston county holds her primary Saturday, the 7th, for state and county officers, and politics here are at a white heat.

Candidates and their friends are working hard, and every one expects to be nominated. Every one says they have no fear of defeat. The campaign has been very warm here for some weeks past, but had cooled down to some extent, until Colonel Tom Hardeman came out for gubernatorial honors. Excitement then went to a high pitch, and if the primary had been held Wednesday afternoon, Hardeman would have carried the county, but there being two days to spare, Colonel Northern's friends, who are mostly farmers, rallied their forces, and sent runners all over the county for the farmers to stick to Colonel Northern, the farmers' candidate and friend.

ATTACKING COLONEL HARDEMAN.

The fact has been brought to bear upon as many as possible that Colonel Hardeman is an old-time politician, and that his brother was now treasurer of the state of Georgia, and a candidate for re-election, and that if Colonel Hardeman was elected governor, the state's money would be in the hands of one family, brother checking on brother, etc. Every one admits that in time gone by Colonel Hardeman has done a great deal for the farmers, and the democratic party, but many contend that he has been better paid for than any other man in the state, and was now seeking further honor and more pay. All this is having its weight, and the tide seems to be turning in favor of Colonel Northern, and by Saturday his friends think he will carry the county. Both sides are working with all their might, and it is hard to predict the result.

JUDGE HENDERSON'S CHANCE.

There seems to be little doubt but what Judge Henderson will carry the county overwhelmingly. Both papers here, the Enterprise and Leader, have come out for him and denounce the charges made against him as maliciously false, and that alone has gained the judge many votes.

Gubernatorial, legislative and clerkship honors will be the closest, and the result cannot be predicted until the ballots are counted out. Business of all kinds is at a stand-still, and the people are working hard for their choice for the above offices.

COLONEL NORTHERN JOBS ON HAND.

The following telegram was received here this morning:

Will F. Wynne: Will reach Port Valley tomorrow morning. W. J. NORTHERN.

Colonel Northern's friends have been pushing things all day, and are not going to leave anything undone to carry the county for him. He is coming down here in person to look after his interests, and will probably address the people here tomorrow afternoon, and in Perry tomorrow night. Things grow more exciting each moment, and all kinds of rumors are afloat. The friends of both candidates are constantly rallying. One moment you hear he is in the lead in the county, and the next, the other. It is evident that Colonel Northern is going to stand by his interest, with the assistance of his friends, while Colonel Hardeman will leave his friends, as there is no report of his being here Saturday. The contest for governor will be hotly contested in this county, but Northern being present is conceded by some that he will carry the county, while Hardeman's friends claim the opposite.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON HERE.

He Will Say Nothing Concerning the Talk About His Candidacy.

Hon. L. F. Livingston is here, and the next day he came last night, by way of Macon, from Thomasville, where he attended an alliance picnic.

Rumors were out here and in Macon yesterday to the effect that Colonel Livingston had definitely announced his candidacy for the governorship.

He was met at the depot here and asked about it.

"It's a mistake," said the colonel, a little more seriously than he is in the habit of talking.

"You have not announced?"

"No."

And that's all he had to say, except that he was pleased with his trip to Thomasville, and had reached here sleepy and worn out.

PRIMARIES IN BROOKS.

The Method of Nomination to be Changed Hereafter.

QUITMAN, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—This has been a glorious day in the history of Brooks county politics. The belief of gladness is high, and the people shout for joy. For a number of years the political method in this county has been of such a nature as to evoke the depreciation of the people. Through the efforts of the democratic executive committee, at the mass-meeting in Quitman Mr. Neal Henry was chosen chairman, and Mr. C. T. Grover secretary. The precinct is entitled to two members of the executive committee. For that position Messrs. J. A. Hannon and Mr. J. Jeff Shiver were nominated. A second ticket was named, consisting of Mr. C. E. Melton and Mr. J. B. Underwood. A request was made that the nominees express themselves as to whether or not they were willing to accept the nomination. The first named ticket was unanimously and unchangeably for primaries. The second ticket was silent. Those that were understood to favor primaries were proclaimed. Their full force, and after the vote was taken the result was seventy-five for the primary ticket and forty for the nominee ticket. The count was made by the committee, and the result was as follows: Mr. C. E. Melton, 75; Mr. J. B. Underwood, 40. The committee met at 10 o'clock, and the chairman was instructed to call a mass meeting of citizens on the 10th of July, and elect delegates to the state congress and gubernatorial convention that meets August 15th. The committee ordered a primary election to be held September 17th for a representative to the legislature, and that on December 17th a primary election be held for county officers. The belief is general that the nominees for county officers will not be at the nomination.

HAIT'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The New Committee—The Candidates for the Legislature.

HARTWELL, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—A large mass meeting of democrats convened at Hart county for the purpose of electing a democratic executive committee for Hart county.

The following is the result of the election: Chairman, D. C. Alford; vice-chairman, William M. Clarke; secretaries, James F. White, D. F. Cleveland, F. B. Doyle, J. W. Baker, A. J. McMillan, W. B. Higginbotham, W. A. Sanders, E. N. Mason and J. B. Masdin.

Politics in Hart county has been very quiet up to the present.

Hon. B. B. Parker has announced himself a candidate to represent the thirty-first senatorial district in the next legislature, it being Hart county's time to name the next senator for the thirty-first under the rotation system.

Messrs. J. H. Magill and D. Y. Carter have announced themselves candidates for the house of representatives. Mr. Magill is the

THE ELBERT ALLIANCE.

WILL TAKE NO PART IN POLITICAL CONTENTS.

The County Alliance Passes a Resolution that as the Alliance is a Non-Political Body It Will Not Interfere in Politics.

ELBERTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—As was expected, a thoroughly representative crowd assembled in Elberton Tuesday, the county alliance, with the reports from the thirty alliance in the county, were to decide whether or not the alliance should take any action or express any preferences as to candidates for the various offices in the state.

THE ORDER IS NON-POLITICAL.

After mature deliberation they held that the alliance was non-political, and that they, as an organization, would say nothing as to their preference for any political office.

As soon as the alliance meeting adjourned Colonel T. M. Swift, chairman of the democratic executive committee of the county, called that committee together, and they called a mass-meeting for the first Tuesday in July to decide whether or not the county would hold primary elections. The general impression is that primaries will be held.

THE ALLIANCE OF MADISON COUNTY.

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—The executive committee of the alliance met and adjourned the meeting for any candidate for any office. They are to meet again in two weeks, and at that time it is expected that some candidate will be endorsed by them. The alliance is very strong in this county, and is generally conceded that the candidates whom they endorse, if they stick together, will be elected.

MAON'S WATER SUPPLY.

It is Diminishing and the Authorities are Concerned About It.

MAON, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—A very serious problem has presented itself for the people to solve. For several months it has been evident that Macon's water supply was diminishing. The matter has been kept quiet, and only the leading citizens knew of the matter. It has now, however, become generally known, and the matter will have to be solved.

Today the waterworks company notified Mr. Dodd, the gentleman who has charge of the street sprinklers, that no more water could be delivered for the use of the water works.

The streets have gone through the day without the least drop of water on them, and are likely to continue in this fix for several days longer. The child's death yesterday afternoon was a sad event. He had asked his mother for a towel, and some soap, and told her he was going to bathe. She cautioned him not to go too far into deep water. Not returning members of the family went in search of him. Finding him in the head of the river, they wished he was drowned. A crowd of people quickly gathered, the place was dragged, and the lifeless body of the young boy found. The sympathy of the entire county is with the grief-stricken family.

A New Division Arrangement.

ROME, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad will make a change on July 1st, which will take the section of road from Rome to Cleveland and the Rome and Decatur line, and the Alabama division, which is now under the management of Superintendent John M. Bridges, and place it under the management of the superintendent of the Georgia division.

The change will be necessary for the removal of several prominent railroad men from the office of that road are gradually being removed. The change will be necessary for the removal of several prominent railroad men from the office of that road are gradually being removed.

Run Over by a Train.

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Last night the train on the Washington branch of the Georgia railroad coming to this place ran over a child just south of the depot at Pickens. The child's body was crushed and it was amputated here last night. There were four children playing on the track and all got hurt, but only one was killed.

The Race in Clayton.

JONESBORO, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Mr. W. P. Archer is favorably spoken of as a candidate for the Georgia legislature in the next election. He is an avowed anti-secessionist, and contends that the county should be placed under the general local option act so that the people could express their views on the ballot-box. He also is in favor of remedying the present dissatisfaction that exists in our county in regard to the way the jury boxes are managed. Mr. Archer is a good farmer.

Will Go to Marietta.

ROME, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—The Railroad State census board, which is here to accept the invitation sent them to participate in the tournament at Marietta on the 26th instant. They will go on the 26th with the census board, and will be accompanied by their families. They expect to meet old antagonists in the volunteer firemen of Athens, Americus and other cities.

Lighting Out Quitman.

QUITMAN, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—At a regular meeting of the council last night, E. S. Denmark and Clayton Grover, citizens of Quitman, submitted in writing the proposition to light the city with electric lights for ten years for one thousand eight hundred dollars per year. An ordinance was introduced, read the second time, and referred to the committee on lights, granting the gentlemen the franchise and privilege for ten years.

Three at a Time.

NEWMAN, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—The wife of Hon. John B. Gooden was run over by a train yesterday morning. All are girls, weighing six and a half pounds each at birth, and were doing nicely at last accounts. The wife was killed by the train, and the child was killed by the train.

An Old Resident Dead.

ROME, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—An old resident, Mr. H. K. Kuter, died yesterday at the residence of his son, Mr. Jacob Kuter. He was eighty-five years of age and has lived in this country for fifteen years, and came to this country from Prussia. He leaves five children, who are prominent citizens of the state.

Killed by Lightning.

KINGSTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—During a thunder storm the lightning struck and killed the oldest son of Mrs. W. A. Moore, a poor widow woman who was working on the farm of Mr. James S. Moore, two miles from town. He was in the field plowing, and the mule he was plowing was also killed. No rain accompanied the storm.

The Minorities at Work.

BREMEN, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Mineralogists are prospecting in the branches and streams. S. F. Crews is here to build up Bremen. He has got Alabama on its feet, and is now trying to get Georgia on its feet. He stands to him, and the pair makes a whole team.

To Talk on Education.

DALLAS, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Judge J. S. Hook, state school commissioner; Mr. V. E. Orr, of Atlanta; Professor Barrett, of the University of Georgia, and others will address the people of Paulding county on educational topics Friday, the 6th.

The Uptown Telegraph Office.

QUITMAN, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Quitman's uptown telegraph office for commercial business was opened today, and this is the first message to make the usefulness of the sleeping molecules of the new wire.

The Farmers Well Up.

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—The farmers seem to be pretty well up with their crops, and all crops are reported fine and in a prosperous condition.

SHORTER'S WEEK.

A MAGNIFICENT DISPLAY OF GOOD WORK.

The Record of the College Fully Maintained, and the Graduating Class One of the Finest The Programme.

ROME, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Commencement week at Shorter college, the pride of Rome, is always a gala week, and this year is especially so. This institution has a wide reputation, extending throughout all the southern states, and many of the northern and western. The year is notable as a most successful one.

THE FACULTY STRENGTHENED. The faculty will be strengthened by the addition of Rev. Dr. A. J. Battle, who will aid Dr. Gwaltney, and relieve him of some of the arduous duties now devolving on him as president.

An entertainment on Saturday evening that was most effective, and which the large audience received with marked appreciation, was the rendering by the elocution class of the Merchant of Venice. The first part of the programme was devoted to recitations by the young ladies and then followed the strong and attractive presentation of the court scene from this play. The characters were taken as follows: The Duke, Miss Montgomery; Antonio, Miss Reeves; Bassanio, Miss Mellock; Gratiano, Miss Upshaw; Salerio, Miss Caner; Clerk, Miss Morris; Shylock, Miss Holmes; Portia, Miss Collins; Verissia, Miss Nunnally. Remarkable talent was shown by these young ladies developed by the training of Miss Palmer. The Jewish Shylock was most particularly well portrayed both in person and in acting by Miss Nellie Holmes, and Miss Montgomery as the Duke and Miss Collins as Portia deserve especial mention.

THE ART DEPARTMENT. The art department of the college, under the thorough instruction of Miss Anna M. Lester, has reached a point of excellence far in advance of its record. Free-hand drawing is especially a feature which has had the attention given that its importance requires. Twenty-four of the pupils in this department exhibit six original designs, each showing by the execution commendable talent and much originality. The art medal will be awarded to Miss Beatrice O'Rear, who has reached the standard of perfection required by the teacher. Her work is exhibited in oil paintings from nature and objects, and in charcoal and crayon sketches. The portrait in crayon of Mrs. Martha Shorter is to be presented to the college. The art gallery was open on Monday and Tuesday, when Miss Lester and her pupils held their reception and exhibited the work of the class. The arrangement of the pictures on easels and in requisite position gave effect and proper light that is not secured by hanging on the wall. More than four hundred selections of the pieces of work are on exhibition, proving the application and the skill of these young ladies, and the work is done entirely by them, as the teacher conscientiously refrains from assisting by touching up, as is sometimes the case.

THE MUSIC DEPARTMENT. The music department of Shorter is now unexcelled by any institution south. Prof. Hennings, musical director, with the assistance of Prof. S. P. Shaw, aim at the highest standard in music, and impart their enthusiastic love for their art to their pupils. The two concerts on Monday and Tuesday evenings, were more than the usual school concerts, for the old composers were interpreted with such taste and touch, as to make eloquent the instruments, and the voices in song were so exquisitely trained and the selections so admirable, that the appreciation of the audience gave proof of the triumph of the teachers.

A member of the Georgia Press association, Miss Fannie Milliken, of Jessup, was awarded the gold medal for the best original composition written for commencement day at Shorter college.

THE DIPLOMAS AWARDED. Wednesday was commencement day and diplomas were delivered to thirteen fair graduates by Colonel D. B. Hamilton, president of the board of trustees. The graduates in the regular course were: Miss Bettie Ledbetter, Miss Hattie Cline, Miss Mary Ann, Miss Leola Arnold, Miss Pearl Ponder, Miss Mary Hobbs; and those in the English course were: Miss Fannie Milliken, Miss Nannie Worthen, Miss Lillian Williams, Miss Esie Clark, Miss Hattie Arnold, Miss Susie Seay, Miss Lillie Morris.

The reading of the essays was dispensed with, and it was decided that copies should be printed and kept in the archives of the college. Hon. John Temple Graves delivered the baccalaureate address, after which the medals were presented by Donald Harper. They were awarded as follows:

Art—Miss Beatrice O'Rear. Free Hand Drawing—Miss Celeste Ayer. Composition and Literature—Miss Fannie Milliken. Penmanship—Miss Lillie Carter. Department—Miss Bettie Ledbetter and Miss Nina Berry. Art Embroidery—Miss Mamie Gwaltney.

The exercises were held in Memorial hall, and address by Dr. Gwaltney, who announced that he had associated with himself Dr. A. J. Battle, late president of Mercer university, of Macon, and now president of Gainesville Female college.

THE NORTH CAROLINA UNIVERSITY. The Orator Insists Upon the Study of North Carolina History.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 4.—[Special.]—The 101st annual commencement of the State university at Chapel Hill began today, with every accessory to make it enjoyable. The day was, for the first time, devoted to the alumni under the new plan, which provides for their taking an active part in the commencements. Many prominent alumni were present, as well as other distinguished visitors. Among these were Governor Fowle, Secretary of State Saunders, Superintendent of Public Instruction Finger, Chief Justice Merriman, Samuel F. Phillips, of Washington city; Charles James Grant, of California, and Dr. Ledoux, of New York.

THE EXERCISES HELD. The exercises were held in Memorial hall, Walter L. Steele, president of the alumni association, presided. Judge Grant was elected honorary vice-president of the association, and made a speech in acknowledgment. The first event of the day was the presentation of a tablet, to the memory of Professor Charles Phillips, by the trustees of the university, the address being made by Richard H. Battle. The tablet will be placed upon the walls of the Noble memorial hall, in company with hundreds of others now there.

A tablet in memory of Professor R. H. Graves was presented by his former students, the address being delivered by W. J. Peale.

THE ADDRESS OF THE DAY. The address of the day was delivered by Colonel W. H. S. Burgwyn. His subject was the necessity of preserving memorials of the past, and of transmitting to posterity a just and impartial history of the state. It was a plea for the establishment of a state university of a separate chair of history of the state. The history of the university was sketched. The constitution of 1776 enjoined the establishment of a university. The spirit of revolution was born in colonial North Carolina. The battle of Alamance in 1771 was mentioned and the regulators justified. The battle of King's Mountain was asserted to be the turning point in the revolutionary war. The reason for the state's delay in ratifying the federal constitution was sketched, and her position defended. It was shown that, as soon as it was apparent that certain amendments to the constitution would be adopted, which would embrace most of those the state contended for, it was ratified. It was further stated, as a markable fact, that one of the amendments requested by North Carolina, but which failed to receive the approval of congress, was to prohibit congress from interfering in regard to the time, place, and manner of holding elections for senators or representatives. The state's history during the civil war was portrayed. Secession was a step taken with great reluctance, but once taken there was no turning back.

In 1861 the state's voting population was only 115,000, yet 125,000 troops were put in the field. The state, he maintained, sent more men to the field in proportion to her population than any southern state, and her proportion of killed and wounded was greater than any, being 35 per cent of the entire military population at the outbreak of hostilities. A brief account of the present attitude of the various colleges and the university in the matter of the study of American history was then given. Harvard led in 1857. History has become a technical study, and should be taught in connection with political science. It can be thus taught to the most advantage, only in the state university, which should be the roof and crown of the state system of education. The speaker concluded with an appeal to the alumni to aid in the establishment of a chair of history, where memorials of the glories of the state should be gathered.

A banquet followed the speech, and at the business meeting of the alumni steps were taken to raise $50,000 to endow a chair of history.

THE YOUNG L. G. HARRIS INSTITUTE. McTear, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Great interest is being felt in the commencement exercises of the Young L. G. Harris Institute, which is to come of here June 15-18. The commencement sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Robins of the North Georgia conference. Rev. John D. Hammond, D. D., of Mississippi, is expected to address the assembly at 3 p. m., Sunday, June 15th, and Rev. J. T. Gibson will preach at night; also, Dr. Felton, of Cartersville, whose heart is full of sympathy for the work being done by the school for the boys and girls of the Blue Ridge counties, will deliver the annual address Wednesday, June 18th. Next to Sam Jones, Mr. Felton can draw the largest crowd, and of the Blue Ridge, any one can guarantee. Several new buildings will be built for school purposes here during the summer. Efforts are being made to accommodate three hundred in this school by January 1st.

THE DALLAS HIGH SCHOOL. DALLAS, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—Monday and Tuesday evenings the classes of the Dallas high school were held. The exercises reflected much credit upon Professor Ferner Barrett and his assistants. Monday evening the elocution contest was held, which was participated in by ten students. The result in the first medal being awarded to Miss Genie Foster and the second to Mr. Charly Hall.

The themes of the pupils receiving the highest mark for the term in their respective grades are as follows: First grade, Oliver Holt; second grade, Lottie Connally; third grade, Maury Connally; fourth grade, Genie Foster; fifth grade, Charly Hall; sixth grade, Ada Tumlin.

Professor Barrett has been appointed one of the secretaries of the Peabody institute.

THE SALEM COMMENCEMENT. SALEM, N. C., June 4.—[Special.]—Salem female academy commencement fifth day. Saturday was read by Miss Jarnagin, of Tennessee, the honor essay by Miss Hester, of Mississippi; the valedictory by Miss Rollins, of North Carolina.

Hon. G. V. Sanderlin's address was intelligent and spicy. Thirty-seven diplomas were delivered in the academic course, thirteen in the commercial, nine in music and nine in post graduates. Two hundred members were present at the alumni meeting. Three hundred dollars were subscribed, starting a special endowment fund.

WYNNON COLLEGE EXERCISES. COLUMBIAS, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of Wynnion college took place at the Springer opera-house last night. The programme consisted of orations and musical numbers. The exercises were presided over by the girls. Medals were awarded as follows: To Berna Peacock, for the best written work; to Clara Clark, for the best map-drawing; to Maude Handletter, for deportment; Peter Paul, for deportment; Master Cecil Neal, general excellence.

STORY OF THE PAINTING. A Correspondent's Account of Bismarck's Last Audience With the Emperor.

The Berlin correspondent of the Moscow Wiedemost has given a paper sketch of Bismarck's parting audience with Emperor William II. His story is quite new and derived from the highest authority at the Berlin court, says the Vienna Neue Presse. Prince Bismarck entered the palace at the hour set by the emperor. The emperor was waiting in the ante-chamber, and the emperor waited in the ante-chamber he remarked to an attendant on duty there: "Yes, yes, a man must learn to adapt himself to circumstances. Never before, even when the emperor was ill, had he come to present himself as the new-made field marshal of the German army. The emperor reached him his hand and motioned him to a seat.

"I have heard that you wish to refuse the title of duke of Lauenburg," said the emperor. "Yes, your majesty."

"I can not permit it. To refuse a title that I wish to confer on you to your honor is an insult to me. I wish to raise, not lower you."

"I am thankful to your majesty for your graciousness, but nevertheless request that you excuse me from accepting the title."

With the idea that Prince Bismarck declined the title for fear his wealth was not sufficient to support it, the emperor, the emperor expressed his willingness to increase the prince's income to the size required by the new honor. Bismarck persisted in his refusal. Then the emperor sprang from his seat and cried: "I wish to make you great. That is all."

"You can not make my name greater than it is," was the answer.

After a short pause the emperor added, with ill-concealed vexation: "I don't see, your majesty, how the emperor can be so unreasonable—that there has been trouble between us."

"I am not responsible for that."

"Moreover, the majority of the newspapers are treating your refusal as a popular misapprehension of the cause of your retirement."

"I cannot help it. I have no power to make the press do otherwise. The press is free, and is doing advance to help the emperor to help the emperor."

The emperor was silent. Bismarck asked permission to go. He embraced and kissed the emperor for the kindness shown him by the emperor's ancestors and the emperor himself. The emperor was deeply moved. He embraced and kissed the prince, and at the last moment called after him: "Too bad, too bad that we couldn't work together. Bismarck was received by the emperor in the adjoining saloon, and the last audience was over.

SONNETS. I. This sonnet-making is the nicest art. The sonnetist, lady, in all poetcraft. A sonnet is a poem telegraphed—A swift heart-messsage's essential part. A'n'd down electrically upon the heart. And battered thro' the senses like a shaft. And yet, the tedious cipher of its draft To the amateur!—Instruct thee: Let us start. Then, at the double quaternary 'tis squarely built—Interliterate rhyme—pentameter. The sonnet now (take pains to weld it sure)—Rhyme as you-go, in true limerick hit. Pass now thro' the crucible of Carlyle's test; Had this in prose been aptlier expressed?

II. But then dost love these sonnets none the less For that they are so intricately done. Dear lady of my heart? Nay, little one; But rather the more. In truth I must confess To an artistic fondness for finesse. It is as one should hold up in the sun A polished gem for me to gaze upon. And ask me, turning round each crystal face With the light playing thro' it, were it not because the artist's tools had drill'd it here And turn'd it there. The diamond in the rough For being in the rough is not less fine. When thou art simply, I love thee, 'tis enough. But when thou gemm'st it, I love thee more.

THE "TRUSTY'S" SHOT.

A CONVICT GAINS POSSESSION OF A GUN.

And Knowing that His Employer Had Money, Ordered Him to Hold Up His Hands—The Shooting Match.

COVINGTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special.]—On yesterday Mr. M. W. Flemlister, of this county, was shot and severely wounded by a convict who has been working for him. The circumstances of the shooting were as follows:

Mr. Flemlister uses convict in working his farm and on yesterday had four convicts at work, and among them was the negro who subsequently shot him. This negro is "a trusty" and Mr. Flemlister sent him for his horse, telling him to catch his horse for him. The negro went into a house where the horse was and where, it seems, Mr. Flemlister had left his gun. The negro soon came out of the house with the gun in his hands, and at once ordered Mr. Flemlister to throw down his pocket-book and throw up his hands. This Mr. Flemlister failed to do, and started to run off to avoid being shot.

THE NEGRO IS DANGEROUS. He ran about twenty steps, and was about forty steps from the negro, when the latter fired his gun, the lead taking effect in his side. He still continued to run, and managed to escape the negro, who then ran off and has not yet been captured. The gun was loaded with duck-shot, and about fifteen or twenty have been extracted from Mr. Flemlister's person. Although his wounds are painful, they are not considered dangerous.

THE NEGRO IS DANGEROUS. The negro is a convict whom Mr. Flemlister obtained from the county authorities of Butts county, but I have been unable to ascertain his name. At the time of the shooting Mr. Flemlister had on his person about one hundred dollars, which was in a large pocket-book, and eight shot passed through this pocket-book.

Mr. Flemlister is one of our most respectable farmers, and has the hearty sympathy of the community in his misfortune. It is reported today that the three other convicts who were in his charge made their escape shortly after he was shot.

"MANLY" YOUTHS AT ANN ARBOR. Who Took Themselves Into a Rage Over a Lady's Enthusiasm.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 5.—[Special.]—Memorial Day, a Michigan student threw a confederate flag to the breeze from her room on Thompson street. Several young men pulled the flag down, and tore it into shreds. The little confederate then picked up the fragments of the flag, and announced her purpose to embroider them on a piece of satin, to place this inscription upon it: "This flag was torn to pieces May 30th, 1860, by northern students at Ann Arbor, Mich."

SENSATIONAL SUIT.

MS. SELINA COLE HALL VS. E. F. GOULD FOR $5,000.

Alleges the Art School Was Broken Up and She Was Insulted and Mortified by His Conduct.

Mrs. Selina Cole Hall filed a suit yesterday at Mr. S. E. Gould for five thousand dollars. Both parties to the suit are well known to Atlanta to need an introduction here. The allegations made, in legal form, a sensational story.

The petition alleges that Mrs. Hall came from the Baltimore Institute and Industrial School of Art and Science in 1889, and founded in Atlanta the "Georgia School of Art and Design."

She secured rooms from Mr. E. F. Gould in the Traders' Bank building, on Decatur street. There rooms were fitted up artistically and appropriately at great trouble and expense, and the foundation was laid for a fine business. The school became a credit to its founder and to the city.

Not less than one thousand dollars was expended in fitting up these rooms.

The school soon numbered a large attendance of ladies, all people of culture and refinement.

It was carried on successfully until the 15th of April, this year, at an income of $400 a month.

Mrs. Hall charges in the allegations that defendant on March 1st, 1890, and at divers other days before and after that time, did keep and maintain a room across the hall, and near the studio and rooms of petitioner's school, for lewd purposes and did then and there maintain a woman of lewd and bad character.

Also, that petitioner was humiliated and insulted and outraged in feelings, and which became and was public, and by reason of which the said business and school of petitioner was broken up, and petitioner was compelled to vacate said rooms and building on April 15, 1890, to the damage of petitioner of $4,000.

Petitioner further shows that said defendant in March, 1890, and on divers other days and times before that day and since, with force and arms, unlawfully and without authority entered the private room of petitioner when she was out, and at times when petitioner was sick in bed, and by reason of which petitioner was outraged in her feelings, to the damage of your petitioner in the sum of one thousand dollars.

Wherefore petitioner brings suit.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A New School Building Ordered in the Fifth Ward.

The board of education met yesterday evening. President Hemphill in the chair and a full membership present.

On motion of Mr. English the committee on building was directed to proceed with the erection of a new eight-grade school-house in the fifth ward.

Mr. Moran moved that a special committee be appointed to present the claims of the people of the second and third wards for a new school-house on the Fraser street lot. This resolution was passed.

English, Auditor, by Miss Millie Rutherford, was adopted for reading in the high school. The book was highly complimented by all the members.

The question of supplying additional reading matter for the first, second and third grades was recommended to the committee.

Mr. Moran, from the special committee to prepare a memorial to the board of education of the city of Atlanta is moved by several reasons. David Mayer, read the following:

In taking notice of the death of our late colleague, Hon. David Mayer, the board of education of the city of Atlanta is moved by several reasons. David Mayer was the patriarch of this board. His counsel was sought by all. With the mature wisdom of years he often guided the younger members through straits where knowledge of human nature was important. He had compassion for the weak, and sympathy for the young. He was a man of high character, and his influence was felt by all who came into contact with him. He was a man of high character, and his influence was felt by all who came into contact with him.

THE SOCIAL SWIM.

WHAT THE PEOPLE OF THE CITY ARE DOING.

The Hubner Literary Circle—The Washington Exercises—A Quiet Wedding—Personal Notes.

Last evening closed the annual exercises of Washington, when the exercises opened, large and fashionable audiences have nightly gathered at the seminary parlors to witness what has been a most enjoyable series of entertainments.

Since Monday, when the exercises opened, large and fashionable audiences have nightly gathered at the seminary parlors to witness what has been a most enjoyable series of entertainments.

The attention was limited only by the capacity of the beautiful seminary hall, as, indeed, has been so since the opening program.

From the kindergarten department to the graduating class, the exercises have been of a high order, all greatly enjoyed and appreciated.

Miss Anna M. Palmer has charge of the primary department, and the entertainment given by the little ones of her classes were not at all the least enjoyable of the series.

Miss Curlette, the accomplished French teacher, deserves complimentary notice for the proficiency exhibited by the young ladies in their French selections, and the same credit was reflected on Mrs. Wilder for the excellence of the elocutionary portion of the exercises.

Dr. J. B. Hawthorne delivered the commencement address last evening.

There was a quiet wedding at the residence of Mrs. Mary Lyon, No. 26 East Fifth street, Wednesday evening. Mr. Joseph A. Lamb and Miss Julia F. Lyon were wedded. Right Rev. Father Kelley officiating. Mr. Lamb is a well-known traveling man, connected with the Southern Bell company, a firm that has been recently established in the room of petitioner's school, for lewd purposes and did then and there maintain a woman of lewd and bad character.

Also, that petitioner was humiliated and insulted and outraged in feelings, and which became and was public, and by reason of which the said business and school of petitioner was broken up, and petitioner was compelled to vacate said rooms and building on April 15, 1890, to the damage of petitioner of $4,000.

Petitioner further shows that said defendant in March, 1890, and on divers other days and times before that day and since, with force and arms, unlawfully and without authority entered the private room of petitioner when she was out, and at times when petitioner was sick in bed, and by reason of which petitioner was outraged in her feelings, to the damage of your petitioner in the sum of one thousand dollars.

Wherefore petitioner brings suit.

GEN. LEW WALLACE

AND HIS BEAUTIFUL BEN HUR FOR THE HOME FOR THE FRIENDLESS.

The "Evening With Ben Hur" at DeWitt's Next Monday—The Entertainment Comes Highly Recommended.

An "Evening with Ben Hur"—could anything be more truly interesting? They are the treat offered the people of Atlanta next Monday night.

Mrs. Bradford, under whose auspices this entertainment is to be given, arrived in the city yesterday and is busily engaged in the preliminary work.

At the meeting of the ladies interested in the Home for the Friendless, yesterday, the "Evening with Ben Hur" next Monday, was discussed, and a committee appointed to look after the decorating of the opera-house.

A number of society young gentlemen and ladies having agreed to take part in the rendition of this famous tableau, it was arranged that they meet this evening at the home of Captain W. D. Grant, on Peachtree street, where they will be assigned to their several parts by Mrs. Bradford.

Mrs. Bradford is accompanied by Miss Minnie Jones, of Philadelphia, who assists her. They are right from Birmingham, where a most successful entertainment was given. The Age-Herald has this to say in regard to it:

"Ben Hur" was given at the opera-house last night to a good house. Mrs. Bradford is entitled to credit for an arrangement so unique and interesting. The featured author of "Ben Hur" at one time attempted its dramatization and failed. It is a universal regret that the thousands of admirers of "Ben Hur" gave up the idea of it being dramatized, and Mrs. Bradford's attempt in the room of petitioner's school, for lewd purposes and did then and there maintain a woman of lewd and bad character.

Also, that petitioner was humiliated and insulted and outraged in feelings, and which became and was public, and by reason of which the said business and school of petitioner was broken up, and petitioner was compelled to vacate said rooms and building on April 15, 1890, to the damage of petitioner of $4,000.

Petitioner further shows that said defendant in March, 1890, and on divers other days and times before that day and since, with force and arms, unlawfully and without authority entered the private room of petitioner when she was out, and at times when petitioner was sick in bed, and by reason of which petitioner was outraged in her feelings, to the damage of your petitioner in the sum of one thousand dollars.

Wherefore petitioner brings suit.

STEEL-SHIRT BRAVES.

Mail Garments Made by a Philadelphia Man and His Wife and Sold for $250.

From the New York Journal.

A little, dark-complexioned man walked into a gambling-house on Broadway last night with a parcel under his arm. He found the proprietor and was led by him into a private room. When the little man came out he had $250 in his pocket and the gambler was the possessor of a mailed shirt.

Inquiry by a Journal reporter showed it to be an astonishing fact that nearly all the gamblers and private detectives in the city are in the habit of wearing chain armor, if not next to the skin, at least very close to it.

The calling of these two particular classes of society frequently places them in the position of becoming targets for friends and enemies. As no gentleman is anxious to experience the results of a big pistol bullet plowing through his vital, or a keen knife handled by an angry adept in carving, the mailed shirt has been almost universally adopted.

"Why," said the gambler, whom the Journal reporter saw buying the armor, "I get shot at about once every six months and the sensation of looking into the muzzle of a pistol that seems as big as a barrel is not pleasant. I am generally sitting at a table with some crank who has aimed his gun on a sure thing jumps up and begins to pepper me. If I have my shirt I am invulnerable, except in the head, and everybody knows that is a hard place to hit."

"Will the armor turn a bullet?" asked the reporter incredulously.

The gambler led the way into the private room. There, lying on the table, was the defense against lead and steel.

THE GAMBLER PICKED IT UP. Its steel links rattling musically against each other as he allowed the folds to softly slip through his hands. A careful examination showed each link to be as fine as the head of an ordinary pin. The whole and could almost be concealed in one hand. Each link was welded to the next one and each was composed of the finest steel.

It was sleeveless, high in the neck, and was longer in front than on the sides, which barely covered the points of his hips.

"You see," said the gambler, going to a drawer and extracting a garment, "this is a chamois-skin vest made to go next to the skin. Over this the armor is worn and then your ordinary garments are placed above. It doesn't impede a man's motions in the slightest and the links are so fine that no rattling can be heard, notwithstanding the motion made by the body. It cost me $250 and it is worth every cent I paid for it."

Further investigation showed that the armor was serviceable. The gambler, spreading the shirt on a table, took a long drink from a drawer and, raising the knife to the height of his arm, brought it down with all his force upon the steel links. The point of the knife snapped off cleanly, and a minute examination of the shirt could not discover a single dent. The rosewood table bore a scratch, evidently owing to a movement of the body.

At the private detective offices it was admitted that a few of these garments were kept on hand for the operatives to use when a particularly dangerous man had to be arrested.

"Of course," said the chief of the Wilkinson bureau, "but we utilized it on the suggestion of one of our operatives, who is an Australian. He knew a man who had been shot a number of times, and was dead, and he thought the desperado had often been shot at, and presumably hit, but never fell. One day in a close fight the robber was seen to fall, and was captured. It was then found that he had been shot in the back by the chain-mail shirt, which inclosed his body. We thought it a good idea, and as we don't care to loose a good operative, ordered a couple of shirts, and have never regretted it."

The little, dark-complexioned man who makes these shirts is a really Philadelphia man, and spends six months of the year at his forge manufacturing.

THESE TINY LIFE-SAVING LINKS. He generally has orders ahead to keep him busy for a year, but the work of manufacturing is tedious and very hard on the eyes; consequently, nothing will induce him to do more.

His wife fits the shirts and also makes the vest in skin vests, which being of the best brand of leather, cost an additional $20. Each shirt is thoroughly tested by knife and bullet before being delivered to the customer, so that no mistakes can occur. In six months the little man can make about twenty-five shirts, which, as he can be easily seen, produce a good income for half a year's work. The shirts are deliverable only in Philadelphia, unless the customer pays the little man's expenses to and from the buyer's home.

Dealers in gambling-houses rarely own one, but the proprietor always does, and generally the man who is dealing the game where the most money is at stake wears it. Should the proprietor sit down to deal, he will assume it, and so it goes the rounds.

The suits are very light, though some are made in skin vests, which are heavier, as the dealer in gambling-houses rarely own one, but the proprietor always does, and generally the man who is dealing the game where the most money is at stake wears it. Should the proprietor sit down to deal, he will assume it, and so it goes the rounds.

They are not uncomfortable either in summer or winter, as the perforations in both shirt and vest allow a free circulation of air.

CROWNED TOO LATE. Long time he stood beneath a cloud of sin And wrong and sorrow till upheld by pride, And then he fell, and then he died.

With foot without and fighting force within And bowed himself down into the dust and died.

Long time the fury of the storm he braved And against the rudest peltings bared his breast, And struggling madly with the utter blast, He cast away the joys he might have saved, Till weary of the strife, he sank to rest.

Stern and unyielding to the very last, He hurled defiance to the wintry blast, And scorned the future and ignored the past, And caring not to live he died at last.

No woman's love was his, no man his friend, He stood alone upon the sands of time; No other love or life with him did blend, Sufficing to himself even to the end.

In nature proud, in intellect sublime! Unloved, unloving, passed he on his way, Stern, solitary, careless of his mighty strength, Still working onward to the better day, Unaided and alone till prone he lay, Stripped of his glory, in the dust at length.

And then the world his mighty genius found, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned, And his cold brow with deathless rays they crowned.

THE STORMS IN THE NORTHWEST.

The Washouts on the Railroads—Fatalities in Nebraska, Etc.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 5.—Reports of damage from the storm of Wednesday are coming in from all parts of the northwest. In general the rain was a benefit, but the wind that accompanied it in some places and the washouts and floods that resulted from it in others, have caused great loss to railroads, farms and towns. Chippewa Falls, Wis., reports bad sand slides, the Wisconsin Central track being under twelve feet of sand, while there are four feet of sand over the Omaha's tracks. There was much damage done to property in that city. Black River Falls, Wis., has had a steady rain for two weeks. In Minnesota, Red Wing and Zumbrota report the greatest damage. At the latter place, after most extraordinary rain fall, the streams rose suddenly, driving families from their houses and washing through the deserted dwellings. A number of buildings were washed away, and the damage is in the thousands.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 5.—A special to the Republic from York, Neb., says: The fatalities at Bradshaw now reach fifteen.

Governor Fayer, Attorney-general Leese and other officials arrived at the broken-down stricken village at 11 o'clock this morning. The wounded have been removed to other towns or into the country. The York people are supplying provisions.

WENT THROUGH A TRESTLE.

Two Cars of Baltimore and Ohio Officials Met With an Accident.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 5.—A report has just reached here of a horrible wreck on the Ohio River railroad between here and Parkersburg. It is learned that a special train of two cars, filled with Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials, en route to Wheeling, went through a trestle and the disaster is said to be appalling, though this is not yet confirmed, as the officials can give no information.

The wreck occurred at Clarington Station, on the Ohio River road. The train was a special, consisting of the private Baltimore and Ohio car, "West Virginia," filled with officials of the road, who were en route from Parkersburg to Wheeling. At Clarington Station

EXCELLENT CONCERN.

MEETING OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE A. T. AND B. COMPANY.

The same officers re-elected. What the company has done. The visit of those foreign capitalists.

The Atlanta Trust and Banking company is on a boom. The directors, at their meeting yesterday, recognized this fact more fully than ever before.

The meeting was held in Judge W. R. Hammond's law office, and a full representation of the board was in attendance.

The election of officers of the company for the next term was the principal business that engaged the attention of the meeting and resulted in the re-election of the same officers that have hitherto managed the affairs of the company so successfully.

They are: President—W. A. Hemphill. Vice-presidents—C. B. Wilkinson and A. D. Adair. Attorneys—Hall and Hammond. Secretary and treasurer—H. Richardson. General manager loan department—E. M. Blacklock.

A VERY SATISFACTORY RECORD. The directors expressed themselves as being more than satisfied at the great results of the company's past management.

With a capital stock of $150,000, an increased surplus of $50,000 and a dividend of ten per cent, the company enters on its third year with bright prospects.

THE RECENT VISITORS. The recent visit of foreign capitalists to Atlanta relates with considerable interest to the Atlanta Trust and Banking company, as many of them own stock in the company.

Their visit may mean very much, both for Atlanta and this entire section of the south, as they are strong men, financially speaking.

"I don't know when I have seen a company of capitalists so favorably impressed with a section in my life as those fellows were with Georgia," continued Mr. E. M. Blacklock yesterday.

"Of course," he continued, "all men, traveling to seek profitable investments in farm lands, will say they like whatever region they visit, but these men didn't stop with that. They are going to invest big money in Georgia. I was with them on their trip to America, and I know that it is their intention to invest a great deal of capital in this section of the south."

Mr. Blacklock, Mr. Hemphill, Judge Hammond and Mr. Adair showed the capitalists the best parts of the south when they escorted them through Georgia, and the Atlanta Trust and Banking company has reason to congratulate itself on having these foreign capitalists connected with it.

Great things will turn up in this way yet.

THE CAPITAL CITY BANK. Officers for the ensuing year are elected by the directors.

George W. Parrott, president. Charles A. Collier, vice-president.

These were the officers elected by the directors of the Capital City bank yesterday. The date for the election was sometime since, but, as will be remembered, action was postponed.

A strong effort was made by the directors to induce Mr. W. A. Hemphill to accept re-election to the presidency, but this he declined, his reason being that his position as president of the Atlanta Trust and Banking company gave him all the responsibility of that kind he could assume. He was urged to reconsider his decision and accept both presidencies, but he declined to do so.

Mr. Parrott and Mr. Collier have been identified as directors with the bank since its erection. Both are splendid business men and financiers, and under their management the Capital City will continue its remarkably prosperous career.

REVIVALS AT TRINITY. Interesting Services in Progress—Others That are Contemplated.

For several weeks there have been many expressions among the members of Trinity congregation in favor of a series of revival meetings. They have been begun under encouraging conditions, and are held daily at 12 m. and 8 p. m., in the lecture-room.

It is thought that next week a 6 a. m. o'clock prayer meeting will be added to the daily services. Several of the leading members of the church have rallied about the pastor and voluntarily have pledged their best efforts. At one of the services quite a number arose and, in deep earnestness, spoke of the inestimable value of a revival to the church and community, declaring that they believed in the time had come for such a blessing to Trinity. Plans are on foot to interest the entire congregation and religious people throughout the city. The singing is good, the talks are short and warm and the impressions deep and solemn.

The 12 o'clock service is designed to be a noon-day prayer-meeting, where business men can drop in and spend a part or all of the hour, enjoying a refreshing moment in religious thoughts and Christian fellowship. Frequent supplications are offered in behalf of a revival of the church and community, and who make requests for prayer. Parents and friends join together in earnest pleadings for those who are dear to them, and much good is being accomplished. The evenings are pleasant, and the claims of business are not so exacting as they were earlier in the season, affording an opportunity for many to attend the meetings. The lecture-room should be filled to overflowing at every service.

FOR THE ELEPHANT.

A Day's Racing at Piedmont Park For the Benefit of the Fund.

There will be fun at Piedmont Park Friday afternoon, the 13th, for those who are fond of genuine horse racing. A feature of the occasion, and one that will make the sport more interesting, is that one-half the receipts at the gate will go toward swelling the fund for the elephant.

Another feature that will commend it to the public is the fact that the racing will be of the genuine variety. There will be no jockeying and no foolishness of the sort that irritates spectators. The horses will hump themselves from the word go, and make things lively.

There will be three races, and they will take place under the auspices of Mr. S. A. Hughes, who is working a stable of very fine horses at the fair grounds. There will be both running and trotting races, and although Mr. Hughes has not made out his programme, there will be fun for those who are fond of genuine sport.

Mr. Hughes will give further particulars in due time.

A CARELESS TINNER. He Turns Out His Coals on a Roof—Carelessness Causes a Fire.

There was a small fire yesterday morning at 805 Decatur street, at the corner of Yonge. A tinner who had been at work on the roof of the building, a two-story dwelling, owned by Mr. Drew Lye, turned the coals out of his scolding pot on the roof, and then left the place.

The live coals soon set fire to the buildings, and but for the promptness of the department considerable damage might have resulted. Chief J. J. Jones says a case will be made against the tinner for his carelessness.

The damage was very slight, not exceeding ten dollars.

ABOUT THE CAPITOL.

Notice was received at the executive department yesterday from Mr. G. Gunby Jordan that he would be unable to serve on the board of examiners to make a report upon the condition of the Western and Atlantic road-bed. Mr. Eben Hilger, of Rome, has signified his acceptance of the commission as a member of that board.

The supreme court adjourned yesterday to the 1st of July, unless sooner convened to deliver opinions, argument having been finished in the cases set for hearing at the spring term.

In all probability the Woodfolk decision will be one of those handed in on the 1st of July.

Comptroller-general Wright is expected back tomorrow.

Commissioners were issued yesterday to the following officers of militia: John J. Gentry, first lieutenant, and George G. Rogers, second lieutenant, of the Republic Blues of Savannah.

S. A. J. Gardner, second lieutenant, and R. C. Berkman, Jr., second lieutenant, of the Richmond Hussars.

S. McAuley, first lieutenant, and P. G. Walker, second lieutenant, of the Dalton Guards.

CONCLUSION OF JUDGE R. H. CLARK'S Address, in Which he Suggests Several Important Changes in Our Laws.

I have told my story of the past. Now, what shall I say of the future?—I mean the future of our laws. As I don't look upon the future with any degree of gloom, I will suggest some changes. Future development will show the necessity of new laws, and amending or repealing old laws. From an experience of six years, and sixteen of them as judge, if I had the power there is important legislation I would enact. Some would require a change of our constitution; and in time we will have a revision of the present constitution. On this occasion I can only mention a few of the most prominent and I purpose to do so, that my suggestions may be considered.

I find the existing law of master and servant inadequate to justice in the present state of industries and enterprises, and the immense number of middle men and employees. These laws have come down to us from a time when they were made for a farmer and his crop, for a blacksmith and his anvil, for a house mechanic, and his few domestics. The courts find difficulty in applying these old laws to present cases, and the result is either the courts have to ignore the law in such manner as to make isolation or plain justice has to be defeated—gross wrongs to be sanctioned.

Our law of homicide should be revised, so to eliminate that called manslaughter, or differently define what manslaughter is, so as to make it possible. There may be cases of voluntary manslaughter, for according to the letter and spirit of the present law, it is, with very few exceptions, either murder, justifiable homicide in the first and second degree, and distinctly defined. As there is in most of the cases, the legislature should so say and declare the circumstances of justification, not leaving it (as it is) to the judgment of a jury.

We should have a law defining what shall constitute an assault with intent to murder. The present law restricts it to the use of a weapon likely to produce death, whereas, it is well known there may be such an intent without the use of such a weapon, and so on. It is held that should not be left to judicial construction, which should be a legislative declaration. It should be further declared that if a weapon likely to produce death is used, to what extent it is evidence of an intent to murder.

There should be no appeals from the justice's court to a jury in the superior court. Such appeals, and as they are now warranted by consent, amounts to giving the superior court jurisdiction in cases from fifty to one hundred dollars. They should all come to the superior court by certiorari. Every judge who has tried cases, involving, perhaps, not more than sixty dollars, can feelingly tell how they take just as much time as if the amount involved was thousands of dollars, and how they obstruct the important business of the court, both civil and criminal.

The idea of taking twelve upright and male citizens to try such small cases is absurd and the enormous extra court expenses they entail is a wrong to the taxpayer. In fact it may be said that twelve jurors are more than enough to decide a case. Five jurors, with the proper qualifications, can pass upon the issue better than twelve, especially when the twelve are selected without any regard to their legal qualifications for such work. Occasionally a juror due up to a jury of twelve men, when there was a large number of cases to be tried, and the jury was not more than several credits.

In criminal cases it is likely the time will never be reached when a jury of twelve men will be deemed competent to pass upon a felony, but to require the conviction of the twelve to make a verdict operates often to acquit the guilty, and sometimes to convict the innocent. In every strongly contested case there is a probability of from one to three men getting on the jury who go on with a determination to find the defendant guilty, or not guilty, no matter what the evidence or law may be. If the verdict is in favor of the accused he goes free. If against him, and it should be a wrong verdict, he is safe in the hands of the presiding judge, and if he has his appeal to the supreme court.

The power of a court of appeal should be given to our supreme court, so that when the judges know the justice of the case and the result of the judgment of the court below, they should have the power to affirm that judgment. The errors sufficient to send the case back for another trial should be such errors as are made by the jury, and which verdict is manifestly or distinctly against the justice of the case. This will require an executive council, and the attainment of justice, but will protect lawyers and citizens against the great labor and expense of so often trying cases over and over again. It is not only possible in all legal controversies, but affords a means of settling and putting to rest, if every citizen, of every race, could resolve to govern his conduct by its dictates.

Peculiar in the combination, proportion, and preparations of its ingredients—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the very best spring medicine and blood purifier. Give it a trial this season.

TERMINAL RAILROADS.

ARE THEY TO BE TREATED BY THE COMMISSION AS ONE SYSTEM?

The Presidents of the Terminal Roads. Cited to Appear Before the Commission on the 24th of June.

The railroad commissioner of the state has taken hold of the Terminal.

This action was made public yesterday morning, but it remains for THE CONSTITUTION to make the first announcement.

The presidents of the Richmond and Danville and the Georgia Pacific and the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia and the Central have been cited to show cause, on the 24th of this month, why they should not come under the operations of the 10th of January governing the transportation of freight.

That rule reads: "All connecting railroads, which are under the management and control, by lease, ownership or otherwise, if one and the same company, shall for purposes of transportation, in applying this tariff, be considered as constituting but one and the same road, and the rates shall be computed as upon parts of one and the same road, unless otherwise specified."

The importance of the matter can be seen at a glance.

Are the East Tennessee, the Central, the Richmond and Danville, and the Georgia Pacific to be considered as parts of the same road?

Mr. John H. Inman, the president of the Richmond and West Point Terminal and Warehouse company, has also been cited to appear.

The question is one seriously affecting the revenue of the roads. To consider them as one system, is to materially lower the rate.

Commissioner Thomas H. Carter, of the Southern Railway and Steamship association, knows better than any one else, perhaps, the real status of these roads towards each other.

"My answer would be," said he, "that the roads are under entirely separate managements. There is just as much jealousy and rivalry between the East Tennessee and the Central as between any two roads in the association. So with all the Terminal roads. Each is left entirely independent in its management, except, of course, the Georgia Pacific, which is a division of the Richmond and Danville. It may be true that the same men hold a majority of the stock in each of all these roads, but to all practical intents and purposes they are separate roads under different managements."

But then will the railroad commission take that view of it?

THE ALDERMANIC BOARD. It Meets Yesterday and Approves the Opening of Loyd Street.

The aldermanic board held a regular meeting in the mayor's office yesterday afternoon. Street work and the renumbering of the houses of the city occupied the board's attention.

The opening of Loyd street was the most important of the street work.

It was decided to confirm the council's action providing for the opening of Loyd street from its present terminus at Fair street to Crumley street. The work will cost $8,300. Hands will be put on the street at once, and the opening effected without delay.

The council's action recommending this was approved in part and rejected in part. It was the sentiment of the board that the renumbering was needed and needed badly.

But there were some details relative to the expense of the plan proposed by the council that did not meet the idea of the aldermen.

So the ordinance was put back to the council for ratification of the board's amendment.

There was a great deal of discussion about the centenary system of numbering, as used in most all large cities. The council did not provide that this system should be used, because it was believed by that body that it would be impracticable in Atlanta on account of the irregularity of the squares and streets.

Since the ordinance was passed new light has been thrown on the centenary plan, and now among councilmen there is talk of reconsideration of the ordinance when it comes up again. If it is re-considered, the centenary system, which City Engineer Clayton highly endorses as the best and most practical, but also the least expensive will be substituted for the one recommended—the twenty-five foot system.

The renumbering of the streets is a very important thing. Unless it is carried out right the work will all have to be done over again in a few years.

The plan to be used as now provided by the ordinance is for a number to every twenty-five feet front. This, the aldermanic board thought would be expensive.

The centenary plan provides for one hundred numbers to each block, no matter how small. It is used in Washington and in most all the large cities, and its adoption for Atlanta, as the best of all the systems, is being seriously considered by some council members who have been investigating the question.

A SAD DEATH.

Young Billy Rodas Dies After a Long Illness.

Billy Rodas is dead.

This simple announcement will cause much sorrow to all who knew him.

His death occurred at his home on Loyd street yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and when he closed his eyes for the last time, was surrounded by the members of the family and a few friends, who remained about his bedside during his last hours of sickness. The deceased, W. M. Rodas, was almost thirty-five years of age, and leaves a devoted mother, a kind and affectionate father, sister and brother. When Billy Rodas died a bright, intelligent, warm-hearted young man, and a friend to all who knew him passed from earth.

Friends who grew up with him say that he never had an enemy, and was liked by every one who knew him. At home he was the life of the house, and when with friends he always charmed them by his humor and companionable disposition. He had an originality of speech that never failed to entertain any one he was thrown with, and, in consequence, was universally popular with all classes. When mother and son were together it was idol worshiping idol. He was his mother's companion and never left her side.

When he was confined to his room, his mother's care and attention were his only comfort. Mr. Rodas has been in bad health for more than a year, but has only within the past ten days been confined to his room. When he died he held the responsible position of store clerk for the Central railroad. The announcement of his death carried not only much surprise, but great sorrow among the young men of the city who grew up with him, and during last evening many members of the old Atlanta Cadets, of which organization young Rodas was universally popular, called to see his face for the last time. The funeral will occur from the residence today.

THE GLORY OF MAN STRENGTH VITALITY.

How Lost! How Regained.

Are You Sick? NO RETURN OF DISEASE.

If so, it would be well to ascertain if your blood is in good shape. If your blood is wrong, you want S. S. S. (Swift's Specific), the great exterminator of Blood Poison. Do not be imposed on by dealers who tell you they have something just as good. It is not true. There is only one S. S. S., and there is nothing like it.

A General Breaking Down.

After suffering for years from a general breaking down of the system, and after trying various proprietary medicines, without receiving any benefit, I commenced taking Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) by the advice of my physician. The medicine benefited me in every way. I increased in flesh, my appetite improved, and my general health was better in every particular. I do not hesitate to say that it is the best medicine I have ever tried.

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

I was troubled for years with a Blood Poison in its very worst form. I was treated by the very best physicians of Louisville, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., but they failed to benefit me in any way. A few bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured me sound and well. This was over four years ago, and there has been no return of the disease since, or any symptoms of it. I have recommended it to others for Blood Poison, and in every case they were permanently cured.

D. H. KAIN, Mt. Vernon, Ill.

Dr. R. S. Gordon, a leading physician of Mt. Carmel, Ill., writes the following under date of March 10, 1900:

"I cheerfully recommend Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) as a tonic and general health restorer, also in case of Blood Poison it always gives satisfaction."

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Cud, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osborn, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

$3 SHOE FOR GENTLEMEN.

GEORGIA RAILROADS.

IT IS BELIEVED THAT ALL RAILWAY
ORDERS WILL POOL ISSUESAnd Strike, if Necessary, Before the Inquisition Plan Goes Into Effect—The Commission and the Terminal.The trouble in railroad circles, an account of which was first published in THE CONSTITUTION yesterday morning, is becoming complicated.It looks now as if all the railroad orders will pool issues in the matter, and a general strike is threatened on the Central road.The verdict of THE CONSTITUTION, "It will not work in Georgia," is generally endorsed.
The inquisition plan must go, they say, or the men will quit work; and there is trouble ahead.THE ATLANTA END.
The Atlanta is comparatively removed from the scene of trouble. The division headquarters are at Savannah, Macon and Albany, and there—trouble comes—the trouble will start.
There are local organizations of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; the Order of Railway Conductors; and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and these are anxiously awaiting the outcome. Representatives of all of them declared yesterday they would follow any plan of opposition that might come to them from the proper officers of their respective associations."Though, to show you how we stand, in the matter," said an officer of the engineers' brotherhood yesterday, "there is only one line man of the Central in our membership here, and only three or four of them in the yards here. About all we could do would be to dissuade men from going down there to take the places of men that are discharged. There are more of the Central's men here, however, in the conductors' order and the firemen's brotherhood."TO POOL ISSUES.
The engineers have taken the most decided stand in the matter, and are really best able to hold their own in case of a strike.Only two members of that brotherhood have signed the list of questions. That was on the southwestern division, and was done before they had a chance of consulting about it. They have since demanded that their names be taken off.Chief Arthur is now in Savannah, and is heartily with the men in opposing the inquisition.The conductors have not acted so thoroughly in union.They are met at the depot in Macon, and probably also in Savannah, and required to sign the questions."Fill out those questions and sign it," he is ordered, "or here is a man to take your train."
But the order gives us until the 16th to sign it."Sign it now or this man takes out your train."Several conductors have signed under these circumstances.Grand Master F. P. Sargeant passed through Atlanta for Macon Tuesday night, and is in conference with the railway officials and others
now.It is certain that these orders will pool issues in the matter.Until the convention which met in Rochester two or three weeks ago, there was an anti-strike clause in the constitution of the Order of Railway Conductors.A big fight was made on this issue, and that clause was stricken out by a vote of 216 to 96.
This put the order in position to co-operate with other orders of a similar nature; and while their order alone might not be able to stand the pressure of a strike, the combined forces of all the railway brotherhoods would.ON THE RICHMOND AND DANVILLE.
At the same time these questions were sent out by the Central they were sent out by the Richmond and Danville headquarters.A determined opposition was made and the order was changed so that the men now in the employment of the company need not sign it.
New men must sign it as they enter the service.WHO IS BEHIND MR. GABBETT?
That question was asked over and over again yesterday."As a general manager," said Mr. Jim Harris of the engineers' brotherhood yesterday,
"Mr. Gabbett has been regarded as the best friend the brotherhood had in the south.
Every employee in the service of the road has looked upon Mr. Gabbett as his friend. He has always been kind and reasonable, and the men don't believe that he had anything to do with the order, though it is signed by him. I suppose, by its being put at the same time on the Richmond and Danville, that it comes from the Terminal headquarters. But wherever it comes from it is wrong, and we are grateful to THE CONSTITUTION for saying so and for standing by us."EXPOSITION NOTES.
The Directors to Inspect the Grounds—
Numerous Bidders for Privileges.Today at 4 o'clock the directors of the Piedmont Exposition company will meet at the drug store known as the Stoney, Gregory & Co.'s stand, and will drive to the exposition grounds for the purpose of making a thorough inspection.They will spend the entire afternoon looking through the park, grand stand, main buildings and the halls belonging to the company, so as to order such improvements as may be necessary for the forthcoming exposition.The bids for privileges are still numerous, and the management secures on an average two great attractions daily.The latest exhibit procured is by the Mc-Cormick harvesting machine works, of Chicago, which engaged, through its agent, two hundred square feet in which to display its machines and agricultural implements.The secretary was busy sending out the handsome new show bills yesterday to a number of towns and cities. These are very elaborate and well designed, and the pictorial splendor every class of amusement to be seen at the exposition.Surprise to All.
After using "Mother's Friend" two months
I can truthfully say it has no equal. I was so speedily and easily relieved that it was a surprise to all those attending me. "Mother's Friend" undoubtedly lessens the pains, shortens the time and restores the mother speedily to health. I only used one bottle, which cost me $1.50; it has been worth $20 to me. I cannot write enough on the subject;
 suffice it to say that I will recommend it to all expectant mothers and advise them to use it.

A LADY'S LECTURE TO LADIES.

A Movement for Higher Culture—Miss Ford's Lecture at Mrs. Grant's Parlor.Of late the ladies of Atlanta have manifested great interest in the study of literature and culture in general. Sometimes they took the form of the Chautauqua idea; then authors' clubs became popular; and now the most vigorous course of study under the tutelage of a specialist has been adopted.The latest movement will take definite form today after the lecture to be delivered at the residence of Mrs. W. D. Grant, by Miss Ford, of Nashville. It is proposed then to organize a class for literary study under the direction of Miss Ford, who has been very successful in stimulating the ladies of Nashville to systematic culture in the field of literature. Among her pupils there were many of the best people of Nashville, and it was through the influence of one of them that she came to Atlanta.Miss Berta Brown, a daughter of the late Governor Brown, of Tennessee, is a member of Miss Ford's class at Nashville, and when a guest of Miss Grant last winter,
she acquainted her Atlanta friends with the excellence of this lady's tuition.
So it came that Miss Ford is in Atlanta and will deliver a lecture to ladies in Mrs. Grant's parlor at 10 o'clock this morning.She has been here but a few days, and invitations have been sent to only a few ladies whose names were given her by one or two friends. Mrs. Grant wishes THE CON-STITUTION to extend a general invitation to the ladies to attend the lecture, one-half the proceeds of which will go to the Home of the Friendless.The admission will be one dollar.
After the lecture a class of ladies will be organized. Miss Grant and several friends have already enrolled their names.It is Miss Ford's intention to go to Europe a few months hence, with a view to the study of Victor Hugo. She will visit the scenes he has described, and study the characters portrayed. All of this she will send back to her class in Atlanta in the form of written lectures, which will throw a flood of light on the great works of the immortal Frenchman.This is only a beginning and a suggestion of the work that is to follow; but it shows the direct and comprehensive methods of study.
No doubt, if the trip is taken before bad weather comes upon the sea, some of Miss Ford's class will accompany her abroad.
Those who feel an interest in the movement will be fully informed at the lecture this morning.What you need is a medicine which is pure,

Is it more profitable for a retail dealer in cigars
to buy from the manufacturer, or the jobber?
This is a vital question for every retailer to consider.We have saved our customers the jobber's profit for the last six years. This accounts partly for the steady increase of the demand for our fine Havana cigars which equal in taste, flavor and quality the workmanship of the most imported

COMBINED CHARITIES.

AN INTERESTING MEETING OF THE HOME FOR THE FRIENDLESS.The Ladies of the Industrial Union Propose to Coalesce With the Ladies of the Home for the Friendless.One of the grandest combinations ever formed in Atlanta is being formed.
It is a combination for good and stands far ahead of any corporate or political combination that could have been formed.Because—
It is in the interest of a genuine charity.
For several years the Home for the Friendless has been in existence. The incalculable good that has been done by the noble-hearted women who constitute this organization, is something that can never be estimated by dollars and cents.Another great institution that has benefited the poor and needy of Atlanta in a thousand different ways is the Industrial union. This association has provided work for those who had no employment, and has taught young girls, who were ignorant of the ordinary household duties, how to earn their own living, independently and respectfully.A PROPOSED UNION.
Yesterday, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning,
the ladies at the Home for the Friendless met in regular monthly session at the parlors of the Young Men's library.While they were in session a set of resolutions was presented by the ladies of the Industrial union, the purport of which was a proposition that these two noble organizations coalesce and join, heart in hand, in the glorious work of caring for those who have none to care for them or look after their welfare.The resolutions were read by Mrs. B. M.
Clayton, chairman of the committee from the Industrial union, and they appealed to the hearts of a sympathetic audience.It was resolved that the officers of the Home for the Friendless be constituted as a committee of the whole to consider in what way the resolutions should be presented to the association of the Home for the Friendless.A RULE BY THE ASSOCIATION has ever been that in matters of great importance no action shall be taken except by the entire membership of the association. While the officers were all heartily in favor of adopting the resolutions, it was decided to call a mass meeting of the ladies of the association to meet at the parlors of the Young Men's library at 5 o'clock Saturday evening, when the resolutions will be freely voted upon, and the proposition considered in all its bearings.By those ladies who were present yesterday the proposition of the Industrial union is considered most favorably, being a movement to increase the usefulness of each organization, in a mutual way.

THE WORK PROGRESS.

Reports of the business were read and passed up, but nothing further of any importance was done.Nearly $8,000 of the $10,000 that the ladies intend to raise, has already been donated, and there are forty or fifty lists that have not been sent in, so that it is hoped that by the time the return are all in, the necessary amount will have been raised to make of the Home of the Friendless all that its projectors and supporters hope that it should be.

CURES

Bladder Troubles

Bladder troubles arise from varied causes and manifest themselves in various forms. Commencing in some of the urinary tract an irritation often extends to the neck of the bladder, and even involves the whole organ—producing cystitis, mucus discharges, etc. At other times an irritable condition of the urine will develop bladder trouble in its most aggravated form.

Point in the small of the back, hips and thighs; heat and inflammation; frequent desire to pass water; smarting, indescribable agonies, which render life a burden, are a few of the symptoms of diseased bladder.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die is because they do not get a medicine that will pass to the affected parts—a medicine that strikes the root of the disease.

Stuart's Gin and Buchu

is specially adapted for all bladder troubles.

It is not good for everything, but in all bladder, kidney and urinary complaints it has no equal.

Keep the water passages free and open by using Stuart's Gin and Buchu, and you will do much for health.

CHOICE

PEACHTREE ST. LOTS

At Auction!

—BY—
J. C. HENDRIX & CO.,

Monday, June 9th, at 4:30 P. M.

This is the Lowery lot, the choicest plot on the fashionable Peachtree streets. The surroundings are the very best. The lots are shaded with stately oaks, and are just perfect. Thousands of ladies have looked on this beautiful land with anxious eyes, but until now no chance has been given by which they might procure one of them.

Two of the lots front Peachtree and two West Peachtree street. The Peachtree car line passes on one front and the Fulton County electric line on the other. The lots are large, just such a place as a gentleman with means would ask for a home. There is but one Peachtree in Atlanta, and choice lots are few on it. In this case you can get one of the best lots on these streets and build your house to suit the good wife. Don't fail to examine the lots and let your family make their selection before day of sale, and be on hand. Take either the horse car or West Peachtree electric cars for the sale. Be on hand promptly at 4:30, as we will begin the sale at that time. In the cool of the afternoon, under the shade of those fine oaks, on the beautiful lawn. Titles absolute. Terms, one-third cash, balance six and twelve months, with 8 per cent interest on deferred payments until paid.

PREACHER MCUTCHEEN.

HE COMES BACK TO ATLANTA AND GIVES BOND.

The Pastor of the East Atlanta Baptist Church Who is Charged With Wife-Beating.

Rev. Thomas E. McCutchen, the pastor of the East Atlanta Baptist church, who left the city suddenly last Thursday, is in Atlanta again.

He left a few hours after a warrant charging him with wife-beating had been sworn out against him before Judge Manning and returned Wednesday on an afternoon train.

Rev. McCutchen has been in Social Circle during his absence, spending the time with an aunt, he says.

The public is familiar with the swearing out of the warrant last week by Mrs. McCutchen, at the time the story appeared in The Constitution.

In brief, Mrs. McCutchen charged that her husband had slapped her, and otherwise cruelly treated her. Mr. McCutchen, being a minister of the gospel, pastor of the East Atlanta Baptist church, made the charge somewhat sensational.

The same day the warrant was sworn out, before it was served, McCutchen left the city. In an interview his wife referred to him as a fugitive from justice, along with a long list of other uncomplimentary allusions touching his character and treatment of her. She called him a hypocrite and a crazy fanatic.

Since the swearing out of the warrant and Rev. McCutchen's disappearance, nothing has been heard of him until yesterday.

Tuesday Mrs. McCutchen went before Ordinary Calhoun and took the pony homestead. She then proceeded to sell Rev. McCutchen's library and other household goods. One of McCutchen's flock heard of this, and at once sent him word of what was going on.

McCutchen took the first train for Atlanta. On his arrival here he went to Judge Manning and gave a one hundred dollar bond for his appearance. Last night he slept at the home of Mr. Bryan, not a block from his wife and his home.

He says there was no call for the sale of his books, as he left his wife and children comfortably provided for when he went away. There was both meat and bread in the house, and he says his books were sold through mail.

There is a long story of domestic trouble leading up to the swearing out of the wife-beating warrant.

Rev. McCutchen and his wife have been married about eight years, and are the parents of two children.

A year ago they separated, the wife going to her people in Kentucky. A reconciliation was effected, but since then everything but peace and harmony has reigned in the McCutchen household. The husband says he has been the sufferer instead of his wife, and that his life has been frequently threatened. In fact, that on account of his personal safety he was compelled to leave the city when he did a week ago.

Immediately after his arrival in the city Rev. Mr. McCutchen was seen at the residence of Mr. Bryan on Howell street.

"I want you to say," he said, "that the report in this afternoon's paper did not do me justice—I wrote the statement myself, but it was altered and cut so that it misrepresented me in many important matters."

"Do you desire to live with your wife again?"

"No, sir. I wish her all the good but never live with her again. My life would be in danger."

"How about the quarrel that caused her to swear out the warrant against you. Did you strike her?"

"Yes, I slapped her twice, turning her over my knee."

If Mrs. McCutchen's hand was in any wise raised, as she stated, it was caused by the blows she gave me on my head. At the time of the quarrel I had gone to bed. She was rummaging about the room, and finally began beating my little girl, who had got up and was fretting. I thought it most too much, and so got up and sat on the bed, throwing my arms around the child for protection.

"My wife fell on me and began beating me, and while I sat up in bed, drew her over my feet, held her hands and slapped her twice. The number of licks I received from her I cannot state, but I got enough."

"While this was going on, she said: 'I have you just where I have hoped to get you. You have whipped me and I will put you where I can't see you again. And if you ever come here again I will kill you.'"

"This is not the first time I have received a blow from her hand."

"At once the alarm was given to the neighbors. This was between 10 and 12 o'clock at night. She told them that I had whipped her. She did not come back, and I got up and went to my mother's house. In the morning I packed my valise and left for my aunt's, and while I sat up in bed, drew her over my feet, held her hands and slapped her twice. Ever since, I have with me a written certificate, showing how ill I was when I reached her home."

Rev. McCutchen says there is something behind his wife's actions more than has ever been known. But he refuses to give any clue to what his "something" is.

The trial is booked for this afternoon before Judge Manning.

MRS. MCUTCHEEN.

A reporter called at the home of Mrs. McCutchen after Mr. McCutchen had been seen. Mrs. McCutchen declined to answer any and all questions about the trouble. Her father, Mr. S. W. Richardson, of Lewistown, Ky., reached Atlanta Tuesday evening, and has been at the McCutchen home since then.

He said that on the trial the facts concerning the conduct of his daughter's husband would come out. They were willing to abide the decision of the law, and had nothing to say until the time of the trial.

THE CASE POSTPONED.

Rev. Mr. McCutchen, being held under a $100 bond to appear before Judge Manning yesterday at 3 o'clock, was prompt in making his appearance.

His attorneys, Messrs. Cox and Reed, asked for a postponement of the case until Saturday, which was granted by Judge Manning.

It is understood that there is a possibility of a settlement of the case, Mrs. McCutchen desiring to sue for a divorce.

Mr. McCutchen is not exactly willing to appear as a party to a suit of that kind, but the case may be taken out of the courts and adjusted in a manner satisfactory to all parties.

Mr. McCutchen expresses a willingness to do all in his power to stop the matter where it is at, and save himself and his family any further mortification.

He Was Vindicated.

Last evening the members of the East Atlanta Baptist church met and considered the case of their pastor.

Fourteen of them were in favor of vindicating him, and four were of the same opinion, but proposed not to retain him as pastor of the church until his case was decided by the committee from the Baptist conference on Monday next.

Yesterday morning he appeared before a committee appointed by the Baptist conference on Monday last, consisting of Rev. Virgil Norcross, Rev. Dr. Shaver and Rev. Penland Jones, to which were added Messrs. B. S. Whitington and A. G. Burge. Rev. Mr. Norcross was selected chairman of the committee, and after Mr. McCutchen stated his case, it was decided to refer it to the conference on Monday next.

Mr. McCutchen is badly wrought up over the sad occurrence, and when interviewed at midnight last night, he looked like a man who was broken-hearted.

GREAT DANGER.

They Should Be Avoided—A Few Points in Regard to Them.

When the Great in His wrath (or for His glory) saw fit to expel His first creation, His own image, from the garden of Eden, He placed on them the curse of disease and death. In after generations He visited His chosen people with many plagues for their disobedience, but of all the many ills He inflicted upon His fallen creation none are more painful, more loathsome, or more terrible in its effects than venereal disease, or, in its ravages and dangers to life, robbing one of all the pleasures of living. But, as in all other afflictions, He has given a remedy; science in its primitive stage was unable to utilize the remedy without causing most intense suffering, and often times leaving the victim in a condition much worse than at first. It was left for the progressive physicians of the present age to offer you a pleasant cure for this most unpleasant disease. You need no longer fear the "knife," its pain and dangers, for it is unnecessary. I have tried all sorts of means and treat you by a rational treatment that when properly applied for a sufficient time will cure you. Have you faith? If so, it is unnecessary to ask you if you wish to be cured of this disease, for you will wish to avoid the intense pain of a severe operation, or are you wedded to the old belief that you cannot be cured without the crude and painful means formerly employed? If you are, I have nothing to offer you. If you are not, I offer you the very latest that science can give you. I have cured many by this rational method, and I offer the same to you confidently, promising you a cure that will not cost you a cent, and that will prevent you from availing yourself of this opportunity to obtain a cure. My arrangements for privacy are all you can wish. Promising to verify all my claims. Respectfully, Dr. E. G. JACKSON, 47½ Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga. sun wed fri no 3.

THE CAMPAIGN IN HOUSTON WARMING UP.

Hardeman and His Friends at Work. Which Calls Out the Activity of Those of Northern, Who Says He Will Be There.

PORT VALLEY, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—Houston county holds its primary Saturday, the 7th, for state and county officers, and politics here are at a white heat.

Candidates and their friends are working hard, and every one expects to be nominated. Every one says they have no fear of defeat. County politics have been very warm here for some weeks past, but Tom Hardeman came out for gubernatorial honors. Excitement then went to a high pitch, and if the primary had been held Wednesday afternoon, Hardeman would have carried the county, but there being two days to spare, Colonel Northern's friends, who are mostly farmers, rallied their forces, and sent runners all over the county for the farmers to stick to Colonel Northern, the farmers' candidate and friend.

ATTACKING COLONEL HARDEMAN.

The fact has been brought to bear upon as many as possible that Colonel Hardeman was an old-time politician, that his brother was now a candidate for re-election, and that if Colonel Hardeman was elected governor, the state's money would be in the hands of one family, brother checking on brother, etc. Every one admits that in time gone by for the farmers and the democratic party, but many contend that it is better to have one man in the state, and was now seeking further honor and more pay. All this is having its weight, and the tide seems to be turning in favor of Colonel Northern, and by Saturday his friends think he will carry the county. Both sides are working with all their might, and it is hard to predict the result.

There seems to be but little doubt but what Judge Henderson will carry the county overwhelmingly. Both papers here, the Enterprise and Leader, have come out for him and denounce the charges made against him as maliciously false, and that alone has gained the judge many votes.

Gubernatorial, legislative and clerkship honors will be the closest, and the result cannot be predicted until the ballots are counted out. Business of all kinds is at a standstill, and the people are working hard for their choice for the above offices.

COLONEL NORTHERN TO BE ON HAND.

The following telegram was received here this afternoon:

Will F. Wynne: Will reach Fort Valley tomorrow morning. W. J. Northern.

Colonel Northern's friends have been pushing things all day, and are going to leave nothing undone to carry the county for him. He is coming down here in person to look after his interests, and will probably address the people here tomorrow afternoon, and in Perry tomorrow night. Things grow more exciting each moment, and all kinds of rumors are afloat. The friends of both candidates are constantly rallying. One moment one name is in the lead in the county, and the next, the other. It is evident that Colonel Northern is going to stand by his interest, with the assistance of his friends, while Colonel Hardeman will leave his friends, as there is no report of his being here Saturday. The contest for governor will be hotly contested in this county, but Northern being present, he will carry it by some margin. The county also will be won by Hardeman's friends, the county opposite.

COLONEL LIVINGSTON HERE.

He will say Nothing Concerning the Talk About His Candidacy.

Hon. L. F. Livingston, who is expected to be here last night, by way of Macon, from Thomasville, where he attended an alliance picnic.

Rumors were out here and in Macon yesterday to the effect that Colonel Livingston had definitely announced his candidacy for the governorship.

He has met at the depot here and asked about this.

"It's a mistake," said the colonel, a little more seriously than he is in the habit of talking.

"You have not announced?"

"No."

And that's all he had to say, except that he was pleased with his trip to Thomasville, and had reached here sleepy and worn out.

PRIMARIES IN BROOKS.

The Method of Nomination to be Changed Hereafter.

QUITMAN, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—This has been a glorious day in the history of Brooks county politics. The banquet of gladness is high, and the people shout for joy. For a number of years the political method in this county has been of a nature as to evoke the depreciation of the county, and the determination to bring to Rome the first prize, and their team is under training to make their efforts successful. They expect to meet old enemies of the democratic executive committee, and Mr. C. I. Grover secretary. This precinct is entitled to two members of the executive committee. For that position Messrs. J. A. Hannon and Mr. J. Jeff Shiver were nominated. A second ticket was named, consisting of Mr. C. E. Melton and Mr. J. B. Underwood. A request was made that the nominees express themselves as to primaries or no primaries. The first named ticket was unhesitatingly and unchangeably for primaries. The second ticket was silent. These were understood to favor no primaries, and the result was seventy-five for the primary ticket and forty for the nominee ticket. The county precincts were not held during the day, but the action of Quitman was regarded as an earnest of what was to come. The flood of success was revealed, however, until today, when the committee met and organized. Here is the committee: Dr. J. S. Grover, Groverville; J. W. Hinton, Hinton; J. A. McMillen, Hickoryhook; Zach Knight, Nankin; F. M. Austin, Dixie; Jerry Tillman, M. O. Ritan and L. E. Wade Dry Lake. The members of Tallapoosa were not present. Editor J. W. Hannon was elected chairman and J. T. Grover secretary. The chairman was instructed to call a mass meeting of citizens on the 10th inst., and elect delegates to the state congressional and gubernatorial convention that meets August 7th. The committee ordered a primary election to be held September 17th, for a representative to the legislature, and that on December 17th a primary election be held for county officers. The belief is general that the system for county officers will not be at the nomination.

HART'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The New Committee—The Candidates for the Legislature.

HARTWELL, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—A large mass meeting of the citizens of Hart county was held at the court-house for the purpose of electing a democratic executive committee for Hart county.

The following is the result of the election: Chairman, D. C. Alford; vice-chairman, William M. Clarke; secretaries, James F. White, D. P. Cleveland, F. B. Higley, W. B. Baker, A. J. McMillan, W. B. Higley, W. A. Sanders, E. N. Mason and J. B. Mauldin.

Politics in Hart county has been very quiet up to the present.

Hon. B. F. Parker has announced himself a candidate to represent the thirty-first senatorial district in the next legislature, it being Hart county's time to name the next senator for the thirty-first under the rotation system.

THE ELBERT ALLIANCE.

WILL TAKE NO PART IN POLITICAL CONTESTS.

ELBERTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—As was expected, a thoroughly representative crowd assembled in Elberton Tuesday. The county alliance, with the reports from the thirteen sub-alliances in the county, were to decide whether or not the alliance should take any action, or express any preference as to candidates for the various offices in the state.

THE ORDER IS NON-POLITICAL.

After mature deliberation they held that the alliance was non-political, and that they, as an organization, would say nothing as to their preferences to any political office.

As soon as the alliance meeting adjourned Colonel T. M. Swift, chairman of the democratic executive committee of the county, called that committee together, and they called a mass-meeting for the first Tuesday in July to decide whether or not the county would hold primary elections. The general impression is that primaries will be held.

THE ALLIANCE OF MADISON COUNTY.

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—The executive committee of the alliance met and adjourned without endorsing any candidate for any office in the state.

THE FIRST MELONS.

PELHAM SENDS THE FIRST THROUGH MELON TRAIN.

PELHAM, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—Pelham gets its first crop of Georgia melons, as usual. It is shipped through the Georgia and Carolina Melon exchange, by Messrs. Hurst and Veal, to Peck Brothers, Omaha, Neb., and goes by special engine over the Atlanta and Florida railroad to Atlanta, and via Louisville and Nashville railroad to the market for destination. This will be followed by regular shipments every day, and within ten days Pelham will be shipping from ten to twenty-five cars per day.

QUITMAN, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—Mr. James Tison, of Brooks county, shipped a car of melons today to C. H. Weiser & Co., Chicago. This is the first of the season.

DROWNED IN THE ETOWAH.

THE DEATH OF THE YOUNGEST SON OF MR. HAYNE DODD.

KINGSTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—The youngest son of Mr. Hayne Dodd, of the seventh district, died yesterday afternoon. He was a lad of ten years. He had asked his mother for a towel and some soap, and he was going to bathe. She cautioned him not to go too far into deep water. Not returning members of the family went in search of him. Finding the child in the creek they knew he was drowned. A crowd of people quickly gathered, the place was dragged and the lifeless body of the young boy found. The sympathy of the entire county is with the grief-stricken family.

A New Division Arrangement.

ROME, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad will make a change on July 1st, which will take the section of road from Rome to Cleveland and the Rome and Decatur road, and the new division, which is now under the management of Superintendent John M. Bridges, and place under the management of the superintendent of the Georgia division. All the trains on the Rome and Decatur will hereafter run to the East Rome depot, and many of the men in the office of that road are gradually being removed. The change will necessitate the removal of several prominent railroad men to other points, but makes it probable that the business at Rome will be increased, as it is more of a terminal point.

RUN OVER BY A TRAIN.

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—Last night the train on the Washington branch of the Georgia railroad coming to this place ran over a child just south of the depot at Chickamauga. The child's foot was crushed and was amputated here last night. There were four children playing on the track and all got off but two—one a little six-year-old, named Edna May Wainwright, and the other a child of about two years, named John. The father was at work in a field not far off, and hearing screams, got on his horse and rode up to find the child. He found the child lying on the track, and came up with the child to the physicians here. The child is doing well. The child thrown off was unhurt.

THE RACE IN CLAYTON.

JONESBORO, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—Mr. W. P. Archer is favorably spoken of as a candidate for representative from the eighth district in the election. He is an avowed anti-prohibitionist, and contends that the county should be placed under the general local option act so that the people could express their views on the ballot-box. He also is in favor of remedying the present dissatisfaction that exists in the county in regard to the way the jury boxes are managed. Mr. Archer is a good farmer.

Will Go to Marietta.

ROME, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—The Rain-bow Steam Fire Engine company has decided to accept the invitation sent them to participate in the tournament at Marietta on the 20th inst. The company will leave here tomorrow for Marietta, and will be back here on the 22nd inst. The company is under training to make their efforts successful. They expect to meet old enemies of the democratic executive committee, and Mr. C. I. Grover secretary. This precinct is entitled to two members of the executive committee. For that position Messrs. J. A. Hannon and Mr. J. Jeff Shiver were nominated. A second ticket was named, consisting of Mr. C. E. Melton and Mr. J. B. Underwood. A request was made that the nominees express themselves as to primaries or no primaries. The first named ticket was unhesitatingly and unchangeably for primaries. The second ticket was silent. These were understood to favor no primaries, and the result was seventy-five for the primary ticket and forty for the nominee ticket. The county precincts were not held during the day, but the action of Quitman was regarded as an earnest of what was to come. The flood of success was revealed, however, until today, when the committee met and organized. Here is the committee: Dr. J. S. Grover, Groverville; J. W. Hinton, Hinton; J. A. McMillen, Hickoryhook; Zach Knight, Nankin; F. M. Austin, Dixie; Jerry Tillman, M. O. Ritan and L. E. Wade Dry Lake. The members of Tallapoosa were not present. Editor J. W. Hannon was elected chairman and J. T. Grover secretary. The chairman was instructed to call a mass meeting of citizens on the 10th inst., and elect delegates to the state congressional and gubernatorial convention that meets August 7th. The committee ordered a primary election to be held September 17th, for a representative to the legislature, and that on December 17th a primary election be held for county officers. The belief is general that the system for county officers will not be at the nomination.

HART'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The New Committee—The Candidates for the Legislature.

HARTWELL, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—A large mass meeting of the citizens of Hart county was held at the court-house for the purpose of electing a democratic executive committee for Hart county.

The following is the result of the election: Chairman, D. C. Alford; vice-chairman, William M. Clarke; secretaries, James F. White, D. P. Cleveland, F. B. Higley, W. B. Baker, A. J. McMillan, W. B. Higley, W. A. Sanders, E. N. Mason and J. B. Mauldin.

Politics in Hart county has been very quiet up to the present.

Hon. B. F. Parker has announced himself a candidate to represent the thirty-first senatorial district in the next legislature, it being Hart county's time to name the next senator for the thirty-first under the rotation system.

Messrs. J. H. Magill and D. Y. Carter have announced themselves candidates for the above of representatives. Mr. Magill is the

THE ELBERT ALLIANCE.

WILL TAKE NO PART IN POLITICAL CONTESTS.

ELBERTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—As was expected, a thoroughly representative crowd assembled in Elberton Tuesday. The county alliance, with the reports from the thirteen sub-alliances in the county, were to decide whether or not the alliance should take any action, or express any preference as to candidates for the various offices in the state.

THE ORDER IS NON-POLITICAL.

After mature deliberation they held that the alliance was non-political, and that they, as an organization, would say nothing as to their preferences to any political office.

As soon as the alliance meeting adjourned Colonel T. M. Swift, chairman of the democratic executive committee of the county, called that committee together, and they called a mass-meeting for the first Tuesday in July to decide whether or not the county would hold primary elections. The general impression is that primaries will be held.

THE ALLIANCE OF MADISON COUNTY.

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—The executive committee of the alliance met and adjourned without endorsing any candidate for any office in the state.

THE FIRST MELONS.

PELHAM SENDS THE FIRST THROUGH MELON TRAIN.

PELHAM, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—Pelham gets its first crop of Georgia melons, as usual. It is shipped through the Georgia and Carolina Melon exchange, by Messrs. Hurst and Veal, to Peck Brothers, Omaha, Neb., and goes by special engine over the Atlanta and Florida railroad to Atlanta, and via Louisville and Nashville railroad to the market for destination. This will be followed by regular shipments every day, and within ten days Pelham will be shipping from ten to twenty-five cars per day.

QUITMAN, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—Mr. James Tison, of Brooks county, shipped a car of melons today to C. H. Weiser & Co., Chicago. This is the first of the season.

DROWNED IN THE ETOWAH.

THE DEATH OF THE YOUNGEST SON OF MR. HAYNE DODD.

KINGSTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—The youngest son of Mr. Hayne Dodd, of the seventh district, died yesterday afternoon. He was a lad of ten years. He had asked his mother for a towel and some soap, and he was going to bathe. She cautioned him not to go too far into deep water. Not returning members of the family went in search of him. Finding the child in the creek they knew he was drowned. A crowd of people quickly gathered, the place was dragged and the lifeless body of the young boy found. The sympathy of the entire county is with the grief-stricken family.

A New Division Arrangement.

ROME, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad will make a change on July 1st, which will take the section of road from Rome to Cleveland and the Rome and Decatur road, and the new division, which is now under the management of Superintendent John M. Bridges, and place under the management of the superintendent of the Georgia division. All the trains on the Rome and Decatur will hereafter run to the East Rome depot, and many of the men in the office of that road are gradually being removed. The change will necessitate the removal of several prominent railroad men to other points, but makes it probable that the business at Rome will be increased, as it is more of a terminal point.

RUN OVER BY A TRAIN.

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 5.—[Special].—Last night the train on the Washington branch of the Georgia railroad coming to this place ran over a child just south of the depot at Chickamauga. The child's foot was crushed and was amputated here last night. There were four children playing on the track and all got off but two—one a little six-year-old, named Edna May Wainwright, and the other a child of about two years, named John. The father was at work in a field not far off, and hearing screams, got on his horse and rode up to find the child. He found the child lying on the track, and came up with the child to the physicians here. The child is doing well. The child thrown off was unhurt.

SENSATIONAL SUIT.

MRS. SELINA COLE HALL, VS. E. F. GOULD FOR $5,000.

She Alleges the Art School Was Broken Up and She Was Insulted and Mortified by Its Conduct.

Mrs. Selina Cole Hall filed a suit yesterday against Mr. S. E. Gould for five thousand dollars.

Both parties to the suit are too well known in Atlanta to need an introduction here.

The allegations make out, in legal form, a sensational story.

The petition alleges that Mrs. Hall came from the Baltimore Institute and Industrial School of Art and Science in 1889, and founded in Atlanta the "Georgia School of Art and Design."

She secured rooms from Mr. E. F. Gould in the Traders' Bank building, on Decatur street.

These rooms were fitted up artistically and appropriately at great trouble and expense, and the foundation was laid for a fine business. The school became a credit to its founder and to the city.

Not less than one thousand dollars was expended in fitting up these rooms.

The school soon numbered a large attendance of ladies, all people of culture and refinement.

It was carried on successfully until the 15th of April, this year, at an income of $400 a month.

Mrs. Hall charges in the allegations that defendant on March 1st, 1890, and at divers other days before and after that time, did keep and maintain a room across the hall, and near the studio and rooms of petitioner's school, for lewd purposes and did then and there maintain a woman of lewd and bad character.

Also, that petitioner was humiliated and insulted and outraged in feelings, and which became and was public, and by reason of which the said business and school of petitioner was broken up, and petitioner was compelled to vacate said rooms and building on April 15, 1890, to damage of petitioner of $4,000.

Petitioner further shows that said defendant in March, 1890, and at divers other days and times before that day and since, with force and arms, unlawfully and without authority entered the private room of petitioner when she was out, and at times when petitioner was sick in bed, and by reason of which petitioner was greatly frightened, and incited and outraged in her feelings, to the damage of her petitioner in the sum of one thousand dollars.

Wherefore petitioner brings suit.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

A New School Building Ordered in the Fifth Ward.

The board of education met yesterday evening, President Hemphill in the chair and a full membership present.

On motion of Mr. English the committee on building was directed to proceed with the erection of a new eight-grade school-house in the fifth ward.

Mr. Moran moved that a special committee be called before council to present the claims of people of the second and third wards for a school-house on the Fraser street lot.

The motion was passed.

English Authors," by Miss Millie Rutherford, was adopted for reading in the high school. The book was highly complimented by all the members.

The question of supplying additional reading matter for the first, second and third grades was recommended to the committee.

Mr. Moran, from the special committee to prepare a memorial on the death of the late David Mayer, read the following:

A taking notice of the death of our late colleague, Ben David Mayer, heard of education in the city of Atlanta is moved by several causes. David Mayer was the patriarch of this board.

His counsel was respected by us. With the mature wisdom of years he often guided his younger colleagues through straits where knowledge of human nature was indispensable.

For the weakness of humanity, and having triumphed over himself, he was always ready to extend both hand and heart to others.

David Mayer was born in a foreign land, grew up speaking an alien tongue, foreign, and was a steadfast believer in the old dispensation. Coming to America in young manhood, he became identified with the people among whom he lived, and adopted their language without the sacrifice of a single principle which had come down through the centuries of his keeping. He was a man of enterprise, hewing his way to fortune through the opportunities which America alone could offer to a man of his ambitions. He raised in honor a large family of children, to whom he transmitted the same noble qualities which he made himself acceptable to his fellow-citizens.

Mr. Mayer never aspired to but one public duty, and that was the furtherance of popular education. His zeal, his perseverance, and his fidelity to trust are best indicated by his record as a member of this board. Through his attendance, punctilious performance of every committee duty, wise judgment and safe in counsel, he filled the measure of the faithful public servant.

In recognition of his services, and as a tribute to his memory, it is hereby ordered that this memorial be inscribed upon the minutes of this board, and that a copy thereof be sent to his family.

MODERN MAGIC.

Messrs. Devere and Burch at R. R. Y. M. C. A.

The last entertainment of the season at the railroad men's rooms, 605 South Broad street, was given last night, and consisted of an exhibition of "modern magic," by Messrs. Devere and Burch.

The audience was highly entertained and secured by the "Saturday Night Club" of the Railroad Young Men's Christian association, and a large house greeted them at 8 o'clock.

The audience was highly entertained and instructed for two hours and more by a succession of surprises. The performance was preceded by a short lecture on the origin of magic, carrying the audience back into the antiquities of Egypt.

Professor Devere, the wonderful magician at whose word the most surprising changes and transpositions took place, was a young man of entertaining, pleasing manner, and enters with keen enjoyment upon the performance. Magic with him seems to be almost a second nature.

The extraordinary display of original feats, the most remarkable being the flying one and balls. The inexhaustible box supplied the audience with candies in a most generous way.

The professional and artistic character of the "star," which is the most wonderful piece of mechanism ever shown in Atlanta. It will indicate, intelligently and accurately, any number thought of by any person in the audience; indicate the value and date of any coin, etc., show colors of objects, etc. A prize of eighty dollars was offered by Professor Devere to any one who could explain this curious and astonishing feat. Every one was so mystified that no one attempted a solution of the mystery.

The audience accorded hearty applause as feat after feat was performed. From the many expressions of praise on the part of the audience, Messrs. Devere and Burch will be sure to receive a cordial reception when they again appear in this city.

The "Saturday Night Club" realized a snug little sum from the proceeds.

SONS OF CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS.

To Make a Bridal Present to Miss Winnie Devere.

The Sons of Confederate Soldiers held a large and enthusiastic meeting last evening at their hall, 241 South Broad street.

They determined, amongst other things, to send Miss Winnie Devere a beautiful bridal present, to reach her home the day she is married. Money is assured to make the present a very handsome one, and a meeting was held.

Other business of importance was transacted. The constitution and by-laws were adopted. The association is constantly increasing in membership, and its success now is assured.

On Their Way to Atlanta.

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—The following delegates to the annual convention of the International Typographical union, to be held at Atlanta, Ga., next Monday, left this city today. W. H. Lanahan, James McKenna, R. B. Hawkes, Edward Boardley, Rudolph DeLeann, of Providence; John Beardon, of Troy, and Thomas Hancock, of this city. Some of the boys were accompanied by their wives. The boys laid over at Washington six hours and were the guests of the George W. Childs club. They are due at Atlanta at 9 o'clock Saturday night.

THE SOCIAL SWIM.

WHAT THE PEOPLE OF THE CITY ARE DOING.

The Hubner Literary Circle—The Washington Seminary Exercises—A Quiet Wedding—Personal Notes.

Last evening closed the annual exercises of Washington seminary.

Since Monday, when the exercises opened, large and fashionable audiences have nightly gathered at the seminary parlors to witness what has been a most enjoyable series of entertainments.

The final closing exercises were the most brilliant of the season. The attendance was limited only by the capacity of the beautiful seminary hall, and, indeed, has been so since the opening programme.

From the kindergarten department to the graduating class, the exercises have been of a high order, all greatly enjoyed and appreciated.

Miss Anna M. Palmer has charge of the primary department, and the entertainment given by the little ones of her classes were not at all the least enjoyable of the series.

Miss Currier, the accomplished French teacher, deserves complimentary notice for the proficiency exhibited by the young ladies in their French selections, and the same credit was reflected on Mrs. Wilder for the excellence of the elocutionary portion of the exercises.

Dr. J. B. Hawthorne delivered the commencement address last evening.

There was a quiet wedding at the residence of Mrs. Mary Lyon, No. 206 East Fair street, Wednesday evening. Mr. Joseph A. Lambert and Miss Julia P. Lyon were wedded, Right Rev. Father Kelly officiating. Mr. Lambert is a well-known traveling man, connected with the Southern Bell company, a firm that has been recently established in the city, and Miss Lyon is one of the most charming young ladies in the city. The happy couple will make their home in Atlanta.

The Hubner Literary circle will meet at the residence of Mr. Charles Hubner, 12 Edgewood avenue, tonight. The life and work of Edmund C. Stedman will be discussed. A specially fine programme has been prepared.

Major W. J. Houston and two daughters, of Decatur, left yesterday on an extended trip to the west. They will be gone several weeks.

Miss Annie Inman returned to the city last evening, after a year at Miss Peoples's school in New York.

Miss Loe Waters, of Atlanta, who has been attending the Normal school at Nashville, returned home yesterday on vacation.

Mrs. W. A. Hemphill has issued invitations to a reception to be given on Thursday afternoon, June 12th, from five until eight.

Invitations to the reception to be given by Dr. and Mrs. H. C. White, in honor of the graduating class of '90, at the University of Georgia, have been received in this city. The reception will be given on Friday, June 13th, from eight until twelve, at the home of Professor White, on Millidge avenue, Athens.

Miss Sallie G. Harris, of Celartown, is visiting Miss Biddle Waddell and the family of Colonel J. O. Waddell, of Edgewood.

The author's club meets tonight at St. Philip's rectory, when Victor Hugo will be discussed. Miss Irene Farns is to read the ninth chapter in the club novel.

New York, June 4.—[Special.]—Miss Eva Hill Saunders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter A. Saunders, and niece of General A. P. Hill, the Confederate general, was married to Porter Virgil Ransom, a son of Surgeon General Ransom, today in the Calvary Baptist church, on West Fifty-seventh street. The bridegroom was of the age of twenty-two, and the bride, of the age of twenty. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. J. B. Hawkes, and the wedding party consisted of the bride's father, mother, and two sisters, and the groom's father, mother, and two brothers. The bride wore a gown of white silk, and the groom wore a suit of dark cloth. The wedding party was accompanied by a large number of guests, and the ceremony was a most successful one.

The Furman Farm Improvement Company.—Yesterday the stockholders of the Furman Farm Improvement Company, of the Furman Farm, near the city, met for the purpose of electing directors and officers for the coming year. The meeting was held at the office of the company, on North Alabama street.

The board of directors, consisting of Messrs. E. W. Marsh, G. H. Adair, A. D. Adair, R. M. Farrar and G. W. McCarty, were elected for the coming year. The officers of the company are: President, E. W. Marsh; Vice-President, G. H. Adair; Secretary, R. M. Farrar; Treasurer, G. W. McCarty; and Directors, E. W. Marsh, G. H. Adair, A. D. Adair, R. M. Farrar and G. W. McCarty.

Collecting Taxes.—City Tax Collector Griffin is making a tax money at a rapid rate. Up to the first one hundred thousand dollars a discount of two per cent is allowed, and so far over fifty thousand of this has been collected. The first hundred thousand dollars will have been collected by the end of this week if the present rate of collection continues.

For Fourteen Thousand.—Colonel George W. Adair sold the Wylie place, on Peachtree street, Wednesday for $14,000. The lot is 100x140 feet on Peachtree street, and 100x140 feet on the Wylie place. The place is improved with a comfortable residence.

GEN. LEW WALLACE

AND HIS BEAUTIFUL 'BEN HUR' FOR THE HOME FORTHE FRIENDLESS.

The "Evening With Ben Hur" at DeGrove's Next Monday—The Entertainment Comes Highly Recommended.

An "Evening with Ben Hur"—could anything be more truly inviting?

That is the treat offered the people of Atlanta next Monday night.

Mrs. Bradford, under whose auspices this entertainment is to be given, arrived in the city yesterday and is busily engaged in the preliminary work.

At the meeting of the ladies interested in the Home for the Friendless, yesterday, the "Evening with Ben Hur" next Monday, was discussed, and a committee appointed to look after the decorating of the opera-house.

A number of society young gentlemen and ladies having agreed to take part in the rendition of this famous tableau, it was arranged that they meet this evening at the home of Captain W. D. Grant, on Peachtree street, where they will be assigned to their several parts by Mrs. Bradford.

Mrs. Bradford is accompanied by Miss Minnie Jones, of Philadelphia, who assists her. They are right from Birmingham, where a most successful entertainment was given. The Age-Herald has this to say in regard to it:

"The play was given last night at a good house. Mrs. Bradford is entitled to credit for arranging an entertainment so unique and so successful. The entertainment was a well-planned and well-executed one. It was with universal regret that the thought of the 'Ben Hur' was given up. The idea of it being dramatized, and Mrs. Bradford's arrangement, which preserves all the features of the story, and makes it a most interesting and instructive play, is a most commendable one. The entertainment is a success from an artistic, as well as a financial point of view."

Miss Minnie Jones is a reader of great power and charming manners. The Philadelphia Press of recent date contains the following:

"Miss Minnie Jones, the reader, made a good impression. The audience might have read General Lew Wallace's 'Ben Hur' from 'Ben Hur' but by their enthusiasm showed that they never read the novel before. From the start of the race, and all through the circuit, they were interested and the play was a success. The description of the neck-and-neck race, and the close finish was only discarded by her declaration that 'Ben Hur' had turned the first goal and won the race."

It is hoped, that in view of the unquestionable merit there is in this entertainment, together with the worthy object commanding the proceeds, the people of the city will turn out in mass, and thus encourage the ladies in this most laudable enterprise.

This entertainment will be one of the most unique and interesting ever given in the city. The proceeds go toward furnishing the new Home for the Friendless building. The price of admission has been fixed at seventy-five cents for adults and twenty-five cents for children, no extra charge being made for reserved seats, except in the case of children, who will be required to pay full price when seats are reserved.

An "Evening With Ben Hur" will be worth seeing. The entertainment should be a big success financially, also.

FROM OUR NOTEBOOK.

A Boy Hurt.—Yesterday morning a horse belonging to Kempton & Cunningham ran away on Pryor street, near the city hall. An only boy for Kempton & Cunningham, Johnnie Foster, was struck by the horse, and his head and back were painfully bruised up, though his injuries are not dangerous. He was taken to Providence infirmary.

Johnny Lost to Veterans' Home.—The dummy line to the Confederate Veterans' Home is now making regular schedule. Trains leaving Atlanta and Pryor streets at 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 p. m. It made in eighty minutes, and the ride is a pleasant one.

The Furman Farm Improvement Company.—Yesterday the stockholders of the Furman Farm Improvement Company, of the Furman Farm, near the city, met for the purpose of electing directors and officers for the coming year. The meeting was held at the office of the company, on North Alabama street.

The board of directors, consisting of Messrs. E. W. Marsh, G. H. Adair, A. D. Adair, R. M. Farrar and G. W. McCarty, were elected for the coming year. The officers of the company are: President, E. W. Marsh; Vice-President, G. H. Adair; Secretary, R. M. Farrar; Treasurer, G. W. McCarty; and Directors, E. W. Marsh, G. H. Adair, A. D. Adair, R. M. Farrar and G. W. McCarty.

Collecting Taxes.—City Tax Collector Griffin is making a tax money at a rapid rate. Up to the first one hundred thousand dollars a discount of two per cent is allowed, and so far over fifty thousand of this has been collected. The first hundred thousand dollars will have been collected by the end of this week if the present rate of collection continues.

For Fourteen Thousand.—Colonel George W. Adair sold the Wylie place, on Peachtree street, Wednesday for $14,000. The lot is 100x140 feet on Peachtree street, and 100x140 feet on the Wylie place. The place is improved with a comfortable residence.

STEEL-SHIRT BRAVES

Mail Garments Made by a Philadelphia Man and Sold for $250.

From the New York Journal.

A little, dark-complexioned man walked into a gambling-house on Broadway last night with a parcel under his arm. He found the proprietor and waited by him into a private room. When the little man came out he had $250 in his pocket, and the gambler was the possessor of a mailed shirt.

Inquiry by a Journal reporter showed it to be an astonishing fact that the nearly all the gamblers and private detectives in the city are in the habit of wearing chain armor, if not next to the skin, at least very close to it.

The calling of these two particular classes of society frequently places them in the position of becoming targets for friends and enemies. As no gentleman is anxious to experience the results of a big pistol bullet plowing through his vitals, or a keen knife hacked by an angry adept in carrying, the mailed shirt has been almost universally adopted.

"Why," said the gambler, whom the Journal reporter saw buying the armor, "I get shot at about once every six months and the sensation of looking into the muzzle of a pistol that seems as big as a barrel is not pleasant. I am generally sitting at a table when some crank who has lost his money and wants to jump up and begin to pepper me. If I have my shirt I am invulnerable, except in the head, and everybody knows that is a hard place to hit."

"Will the armor turn a bullet?" asked the reporter incredulously.

The gambler led the way into the private room. There, lying on the table, was the defense against lead and steel.

THE GAMBLER PICKED IT UP.
